King, Graydon Clash Sharply During Debate

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—When Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night construed Progressive Conservative opposition to establishment of a 1944 war expenditures committee as "unwillingness to assist the treasury in effecting economies in wartime," the House of Commons went through its most exciting moment in several years.

Mr. King and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, were on their feet at the same time, shouting at each other "sit down."

"My honorable friend can't tell me to sit down," said Mr. King.

"The Speaker can," retorted Mr. Graydon.

The thing which actually precipitated the exchange was when Mr. King remarked that some groups were thinking more of winning elections than of winning the war.

WITHDRAWAL DEMANDED

Mr. Graydon finally got the floor to demand a withdrawal but the Speaker ruled Mr. King's remark was not a personal reflection on any member.

For two days the house had been heatedly debating the report of last year's war expenditures committee and yesterday rejected a motion to

Members' Rights Said Threatened

J. G. Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre), speaking in the war appropriations debate in the House of Commons Tuesday, said he saw a threat to independence of members of parliament in methods adopted by government members in dealing with allegations of M. J. Coldwell (CCF Leader), concerning operations of the Aluminum Co. of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker, main speaker at the afternoon sitting of the House, supported demands that all evidence taken by the special committee appointed last session to investigate the company, be tabled.

Alberta Federation of Labor convention delegates Tuesday rejected a resolution from the Edmonton Fire-Fighters' Union, which if passed, would have been a declaration of support for the C.C.F. Party in the federal and provincial parliamentary fields.

Instead the delegates passed the following resolution: That this convention calls upon its affiliated unions, and all organized workers, to take all necessary steps in their communities to create trade union committees for political action so as to enable the trade unions to play a more direct and more appropriate role in influencing and shaping the great movement for independent political action, and thereby secure trade union representation on all government bodies.

We further recommend, the resolution stated, that labor unions support candidates who favor the policies of the trade union movement as represented by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. This resolution is in line with the political policy laid down at the recent Montreal convention of the Trades Congress.

FIRE-FIGHTERS' RESOLUTION

The resolution submitted by the Edmonton fire-fighters is as follows:

Whereas, it becomes increasingly

At Convention

Name Calgarian New President Of Labor Group

Duncan B. McKenzie, Calgary a trade unionist for more than 30 years, and a past vice-president of the Alberta Federation of Labor, was elected president in succession to Alfred Farmilo, Edmonton. Malcolm Ainslie, Edmonton, was elected general secretary, succeeding Carl E. Berg, and Harvey M. Bishop, Edmonton, was named delegate to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Mr. McKenzie was opposed by William Alford, Lethbridge, and G. G. Cushing, secretary of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council, sought election to the general secretaryship.

The next convention of the federation will be held at Calgary, and will be at the call of the executive.

The convention went on record as favoring a maximum eight-hour day and 40 hour week for all workers a,nd requested the Alberta government to enact legislation recognizing the eight-hour day and 40 hour week as a post-war measure.

It was further resolved that should it be found that a surplus of labor still exists after this measure is enacted that a further reduction be made in the daily and weekly maximum hours of work. These resolutions were sponsored by the Calgary Trades and Labor Council.

A resolution calling for holidays with pay for workers in all industries was endorsed, as was one enforcing the principle of labor management councils where labor representatives are elected by their trade unions.

Immediate establishment of a national health scheme was demanded. Another resolution that all men returned from military service should be maintained on army pay in civil life until suitable employment is found for them was unanihously endorsed.

SEEK PENSION

A resolution calling on provincial and Dominion governments to accept the principle of retirement on adequate pension of veterans of the Great War, 1914-18, on reaching the age of 60 or less age under certain circumstances instead of the current 65 years retirement limit was endorsed.

It was requested also that where superannuation and pension plans do not give credit to the employee for time service in the Great War be amended to do so.

The convention instructed the incoming executive to make a study of existing Alberta legislation and the recommendations of the J. L. Cohen, K.C., report on labor relations with a view to evolving a sound labor code for the province.

Soviet Capital Hails Birthday Of Red Forces

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—While the Red Army went about its work afield on the 26th anniversary of its founding, Muscovites celebrated the holiday in beflagged streets, pulsing with an animation they have hardly displayed since the war began.

Civilians and troops on leave or in transit hurried through light snow and lined up in queues before news-stands awaiting the papers containing the order of the day in which Stalin hailed the Red Army and pledged certain victory.

The victory cannon of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Gomel, Dnepropetrovsk and Rostov were primed for concerted salvos this evening to celebrate the Red Army's triumphs in the last year.

The front pages of all newspapers were splashed with Stalin's order of the day. The second and third pages were given over largely to communiques and lists of men decorated for distinguished services.

Finn Peace Envoy Leaves For Home

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 23—Juho K. Paasikivi, former Finnish premier who had been in Stockholm for 10 days extending Finland's peace feelers to the Russians, returned to Helsinki by airplane early today.

The envoy was expected, however, to return to Stockholm shortly after conferring with the Finnish government.

Passikivi came here Feb. 12 on what he reported as a private visit but it was understood that he established at least indirect contact with Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, Soviet ambassador to Sweden, in an attempt to learn Russia's terms for permitting Finland to get out of the war.

Light Snow Falls: Weather Is Milder

Light snow which began at 2:45 a.m. Wednesday was still falling when Edmontonians made their way to work, and up to that time one-tenth of an inch had fallen. According to weather officials the snow will continue till late this afternoon. The temperature remained mild with an official maximum Tuesday of 30 degrees, and an overnight low of 17 degrees. Fresh winds which began Tuesday afternoon blew at an average of 22 miles an hour, and at times with gusts up to 36 miles, until late in the evening. Temperature at 8:30 Wednesday morning was 19 degrees.

The official forecast for Wednesday and Thursday was "partly cloudy and mild with light snowflurries Wednesday afternoon and Thursday."

Bombs Dropped On Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 23—At least three foreign bombers dropped high explosives on Stockholm's southern suburbs and at Staengnaes—where the bombs were identified as of Russian origin—last night, smashing hundreds of windows but apparently causing no deaths.

Russian planes were over Finland again last night. A dispatch telephoned from Turku (Aabo), the main Finnish port for traffic with Sweden, 175 miles northeast of Stockholm across the Baltic Sea, said there had been a four-hour air alarm there beginning at 7.20 p.m.

A German DNB News Agency dispatch said Turku was attacked by Soviet planes during the night.

National Transport Policy Is Requested

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—The Dominion joint legislative committee of the railway brotherhoods today asked the Dominion government to consider a national transportation policy at the proposed Dominion-provincial conference.

The committee urged adoption of an adequate health insurance scheme and the appropriation of at least $2,000,000 to assist individuals and organizations engaged in scientific medical research.

The government's plans for a social security scheme should be advanced as rapidly as possible, the committee said.

An active drive to eliminate level crossings with an appropriation of at least $1,000,000 was asked.

The brief asked amendment to allow railwaymen income tax exemption on expenditures for meals and lodgings while away from home. The committee said allowance for away-from-home expenses was at present restricted to those paid on a mileage basis.

Edmonton, Drumheller Airmen Given D.F.C. For Courage on Raids

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Air Force headquarters last night announced award of Distinguished Flying Crosses to two R.C.A.F. pilots from Alberta who have been participating in the heavy bombing attacks against Berlin in the last two months.

The pilots are PO. F. W. Burgess of Drumheller and PO. E. T. Jones of 9602 149 St., Edmonton.

The citations for both airmen follow:

PO. Jones: "This officer was captain of an aircraft detailed to attack Berlin one night in January, 1944. During the operation the aircraft was intercepted by a fighter which attacked with much persistence.

PLANE HEAVILY HIT

"PO. Jones manoeuvred with skill but his aircraft was repeatedly hit by cannon and machine gun fire before the enemy aircraft could be evaded. One engine was disabled, the rear and midupper turrets were rendered unserviceable.

"The starboard tail plane, the elevator and the fuselage were damaged while one of the bomb doors was almost shot away. Some stores caught fire but PO. Jones jettisoned the burning articles and course was set for home.

"The aircraft was difficult to control and some height was lost but displaying great skill and determination PO. Jones flew the damaged aircraft to base.

"In the face of a most trying situation he set a fine example of coolness and courage."

ON BERLIN ATTACK

PO. Burgess: "In December, 1943, this officer was pilot of an aircraft detailed to attack Berlin. On the outward flight one of the aircraft's engines became useless, the rear turret was put out of action and some important equipment became unserviceable.

PO. EDGAR T. JONES

"Although the target was still some 250 miles distant PO. Burgess continued to the target and made a successful attack afterwards flying safely to base. His example of determination and devotion to duty was worthy of great praise.

"PO. Burgess has completed numerous sorties and has proved himself to be an efficient and understanding captain."

Motorists Save $60,000

License Fees Are Reduced On Cars Made Up to 1934

A saving of $60,000 this year for 13,710 Alberta motorists who operate cars made between the years 1929 and 1934 inclusive was announced in the Legislature Tuesday by Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary.

The minister said the government had decided to advance from 1929 to 1934 the model of automobile that would be eligible for reduced license rates now in effect for older cars.

Mr. Hooke announced the license reduction plan during the course of a debate on a resolution introduced into the House by J. Percy Page, Independent M.L.A. for Edmonton, which called for a flat 20 per cent reduction in all motor license fees collected in the province. On a division, the resolution was rejected.

EXTEND ARRANGEMENT

The license fee reduction is to be put into effect on all automobiles manufactured prior to 1934, Mr. Hooke said. This will effect an extension of arrangements made a few years ago, when cars manufactured up until 1929 were allowed licenses on a lower scale, graduated according to wheelbase.

It was announced that the 13,710 car owners who are to benefit under the new plan will bring to 44,160 the number of owners who benefit by the reduced rates on older model cars. Some 30,450 already receive reductions under the 1929 "cut-off" date.

The new number of motorists to benefit under the plan, 44,160, is

LISBON, Feb. 23.—An R.A.F. plane with a crew of six Canadians crashed at Montalegre, North Portugal, near the Spanish border Wednesday and all on board were killed.

The crash was laid to poor visibility.

Part of the wreckage and some of the bodies were found on one side of the border and part on the other.

It is believed that the aircraft was part of a large formation of planes which flew over the area, bound southward.

Barkley Resigning Senate Leadership

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky offered his resignation today as Democratic leader of the Senate in a vehement protest against President Roosevelt's tax veto, which he denounced as a "deliberate and calculated assault upon the honesty and integrity" of Congressmen.

Barkley threw down the leadership after a bitter and sarcastic attack on the President—titular head of Barkley's own party.

He shouted his anger at the President's veto message and at one time termed Mr. Roosevelt's own tax goals as "fantastic."

"Other members may do as they please," Barkley shouted. "I do not propose to take this unjustifiable assault lying down."

As the Kentuckian gave up the leadership he has held since 1937 he turned to his colleagues and shouted:

"If the Congress of the United States has any self respect left it will override this veto and enact this tax bill into law."

FOLKESTONE, Eng., Feb. 23.—British and German cross-channel guns opened a heavy 40-minute duel shortly after 4 a.m. today. Surface activity appeared to be going on in the Straits of Dover and British aircraft were seen over the channel.

(The Nazi DNB news agency reported that the British guns fired at German vessels in the channel but asserted that none was hit. DNB said the German guns fired at least 30 heavy shells at the British batteries.)

4 Die in California Storm, Many Driven from Homes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Clearing skies today promised termination of a storm that brought 7.19 inches of rain in four days, caused four deaths, drove more than 300 persons from their homes and caused widespread damage to southern California.

In suburban Rosemead a porch, ripped from one house by a tornado, knocked a hole in another. A cafe was unroofed and trees, lampposts and signboards uprooted by the twister. No one was hurt.

Violent breakers tossed 12 fishing vessels ashore at Santa Monica and sank two others at their moorings. Half of the Malibu pier was torn away.

The city's 407 public schools closed yesterday, but the 300,000 pupils were summoned back to classes today, except where heat was off.

Flood conditions blocked the Southern Pacific's coast and valley lines, the railroad announced with army approval.

Fifty families were evacuated from their homes in Long Beach when a drainage pool overflowed. On Los Angeles' southwest side, 25 families fled their houses when water rose to 1-foot height in their living rooms.

William Aitken, 17, of Inglewood, died after his car collided with a parked auto in the rain. Clarence Larson, of Tujunga, drowned when his machine plunged into the big Tujunga wash at Foothill boulevard.

Drowned previously were Donald Irwin, 39, of Ventura, and Biago Brigante, 35, of Los Angeles.

Report Says:

Million Unfilled Jobs Available Following War

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — (CP) — When peace returns and the transition from war to peace economy is completed, there may be available to Canadians from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 unfilled peacetime jobs, said an interim report on rehabilitation tabled today before the Commons reconstruction committee.

The report was prepared by Dr. G. M. Weir, acting director of training in the pensions department and tabled by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

500,000 OVER 1939

Questioned by newspapermen, Dr. Weir said later it appeared safe to assume there will be about 500,000 jobs additional to those available in 1939 after the transition from war to peace.

Replies to questionaires had been on different bases he said, and it could not be said exactly what number of the total of between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 "available" jobs could be called "new" jobs.

An official summary of the report said it was based on the opinions of more than 50,000 people in Canada and on a questionnaire filled out by 347,000 members of the armed forces.

Nazis Massing For New Blow At Beachhead

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 23—British and American troops on the Anzio front held firm under new German counter-attacks, a communique said today, as front reports indicated Nazi armored forces were massing in great strength for a third major attempt to crush the Allied beachhead.

Covered by bad weather and a day-long artillery barrage that sent hundreds of shells scrashing into the beachhead, the Germans thrust repeatedly against the Allied lines yesterday and moved strong formations of tanks and shock troops into position for a general attack.

(The German-controlled Rome radio said today that "the German high command has deemed it advisable to halt operations south of Rome for the time being," the listening post of Reuters News Agency reported. There was no indication of such plans from Allied quarters.)

British artillery for the second straight day broke up an enemy concentration in the Aprilia sector and two attacks against American lines west of Cisterna were beaten off.

HEAVY NAZI CASUALTIES

Headquarters spokesmen said the Germans suffered considerable casualties in both sectors, but it was indicated the local actions were designed to screen Nazi preparations for another big push.

How badly the Germans "took it" during their four-day attack from Feb. 16 to 19 was indicated by official Allied reports that Nazi casualties in that assault were the heaviest of the Italian campaign.

Five hundred German dead were counted in front of one sector, southeast of Aprilia.

On the 5th Army's main southern front and the British 5th Army's Adriatic sector, only minor patrol classes were reported.

Roosevelt Shares Churchill's Views On Ending of War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—President Roosevelt, emphasizing what Prime Minister Churchill said in the House of Commons earlier in the day, told his press conference late yesterday that there was no assurance the European war will end in 1944.

That was exactly what he had been saying for the last two years, the President said, when questioned on the Churchill statement.

However, the President said Mr. Churchill's warning against over-optimism and his own, did not mean there would be any slowing up of operations.

But he did not discuss any phase of the European war situation.

Churchill Lauds Glorious Feats Of Soviet Army

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill, in a message to Premier Stalin and all ranks of the Red army on the army's 26th anniversary, today expressed "profound admiration of their glorious record."

"Inspired and guided by your leadership and by their love of the soil of Russia, trusting their skilful and resolute commanders, they will go forward to victory, and through victory to peace with honor," he told Stalin.

The British chiefs of staff messaged Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov "our most sincere wishes for yet more brilliant successes, and for speedy and total destruction of our common enemy."

Council Accepts Offer of 99.336 For Refunding

Aldermen, by unanimous vote Tuesday afternoon, accepted the bid of 99.336 made by a syndicate of six financial houses for the re-financing of $1,700,000 of Edmonton's debenture debt, and passed two bylaws to implement the re-financing.

Aldermen Sidney Parsons and R. Winslow Hamilton were absent from the meeting. The former was attending sessions of the Alberta Federation of Labor, and the latter is indisposed.

The proposed issue of bonds will carry an average interest rate of 3.54 per cent., while the average interest rate now being paid on the entire city debt is 4.93, Commissioner John Hodgson told members of the city council.

"FAVORABLE BID"

He said the re-financing offer must be regarded as a "mighty favorable bid," and will help to re-establish Edmonton bonds on the stock market at lower interest rates.

There were three bids for the re-financing, the others, also from eastern financial interests, were 99.63 and 98.523.

The proceeds of this debenture issue will be turned over to the Edmonton Sinking Fund Board for loans advanced under the refunding plan, 1937, and it will be utilized to call $3,450,000 of Edmonton bonds on August 1.

Aiding Deserters To Bring Penalties

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — (CP) — Assistance to a person deserting from the armed forces is made a violation of the Defence of Canada Regulations under an amendment published today in Canadian War Orders and Regulations.

Penalties of imprisonment for not more than six months are provided for persons found guilty of persuading or assisting a member of the forces to absent himself without leave or desert, or to conceal such a member. A similar penalty is provided for persons performing an act to make a member of the forces physically unfit for service.

All Army Ranks, C.W.A.C. Can Wear Civilian Clothes

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—All ranks of the army and C.W.A.C. now may wear civilian clothes on leave of seven days or more, army headquarters said last night.

Previously army personnel could only wear clothing other than uniform for sports requiring special dress.

The change in the regulations was announced in a recent routine order.

The R.C.A.F. permits personnel, including members of the women's division, to wear civilian clothes on leave at the discretion of officers commanding. The navy allows male ratings on long leaves and members of the women's Royal Canadian Naval Service on leaves of 48 hours or more to wear civilian clothing.

Britain, U.S. Hold Talks With Spain

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Liberator bombers of the Mediterranean air force blasted two big German aircraft factories in Austria today, carrying the American assault on Nazi aviation centres through its fourth day.

Flying a 1,000-mile round trip over the Alps, the Liberators of the 15th Air Force hammered the Daimler-Puck and neighboring Flugomtoren-Fabrik Walzlagerwerke factories at Steyer, 90 miles west of Vienna.

The 15th Air Force joined the onslaught against German plane sources yesterday in conjunction with a bombardment of plants west of Berlin by the Eight Air Force in Britain, but the two-way incursion was not repeated today.

STRONG OPPOSITION

Allied headquarters in Italy announced that the Liberators encountered strong fighter opposition in the attack on Germany's two biggest ballbearing plants which also turn out aircraft component parts and motors.

Soviet Forces Unleash Series Of Offensives

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—Inspired by Premier Josef Stalin's assurance that Germany is nearing catastrophe, the Red army observed its 26th birthday today by fusing a series of drives into general offensives that were swiftly rolling up both wings of the Nazi line in the Ukraine and northern Russia.

Three Russian armies synchronized their pushes toward the Baltic states on a broad northern front, bringing the strategic Dno junction under artillery fire and gaining the approaches to Pskov.

The four armies of the Ukraine, capitalizing on the fall of Krivoi Rog, smashed forward in unison beyond the shattered German primary defences on the open plains toward the Black Sea and Bessarabia.

NAZI ADMISSION

(The German high command reported that a powerful Russian onslaught had broken through Nazi lines in central White Russia northwest of Rogachev, and acknowledged that "disengaging movements"—a general retreat—continued on a wide northern front).

The fall of Dno, defence outpost for Pskov on the invasion route for the Baltic states, was believed only a matter of days as the Russians made giant new strides in the same general area in which the Red Army won its first victory over the Germans 26 years ago today.

Stalin Asserts Nazis Will Not Divide Allies

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin told his country today that all German attempts to "introduce disharmony in the camp of the anti-Hitlerite coalition" are doomed to failure, spoke of the coming action of "the main forces of our Allies" and praised the Red army for smashing Germany "to the edge of catastrophe."

Stalin, however, in his special order of the day on the 26th anniversary of the Red army, again emphasized the Russian contention that Russia has been bearing the brunt of the German war effort and said "the main forces of Germany still are operating on one front against the Soviet Union. . . ."

TO BE MORE HOPELESS

"All the more hopeless will the situation of Hitlerite Germany be when the main forces of our Allies go into action and the powerful and growing offensive of all the Allied states is launched against Hitlerite Germany," Salin said.

"Hitlerite diplomats are rushing from one neutral country to another," he said, "trying to establish contacts with pro-Hitlerite elements, hinting at the possibility of separate peace, sometimes with our state, sometimes with our allies.

"All these subterfuges of the Hitlerites are doomed to failure."

Million Unfilled Jobs Available Following War

Canadians, the report said, it is believed:

1. That full employment in the post-war period is feasible;

2. That professional opportunities will be increased by about 50,000, with need for doctors and dentists heading the list;

3. That construction and building, manufacturing and agriculture will offer the greatest opportunities for employment for men in the armed services; and that the three principal fields for women will be in professional, personal and miscellaneous service, vocational and clerical work.

Dr. Weir said his report is based on assumptions that growth of population and industrial development after the war will continue at as rapid a pace as in the past; that fairly full employment and gradually improved standards of living will be realized; that government controls will be relaxed; but that there will continue to be government direction and an extensive program of public works if needed.

OTHER BELIEFS

The report also assumes, he said, that social services will be developed fairly rapidly; that post-war expansion will not primarily involve increases in jobs arising from "boom" conditions; that there will be effective conversion of war industries to peacetime pursuits; and that, in order to provide full employment, a reasonably high national income must be maintained to assure decent standards of living and adequate social services.

Mr. Mackenzie said in a statement to the committee that on the basis of the survey it is estimated that provision should tentatively be made for the vocational training of close to 200,000 young people now in the armed forces.

The minister said the comments and conclusions in Dr. Weir's report merely suggested the extent of the problem and the scope of the partial inquiry already made.

FULL EMPLOYMENT IS SEEN AFTER WAR

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Dr. G. M. Weir, acting director of training in the pensions department, said today before the commons reconstruction committee that an educational revolution as well as an industrial revolution is possible after the war when the Dominion launches its greatest adult education program.

Businessmen's replies to questionaires indicated they might display "over-timidity" in respect to employment possibilities, but at the same time they expected great industrial expansion in the post-war period, he said.

Despite such incongruous opinions, some of the most competent observers believed there not only would be full employment after the war but also insufficient trained workers for available jobs.

John R. MacNicol (P.C., Toronto Davenport) said he would like to see some "concrete evidence" that the government is planning jobs at which men can be put to work immediately after the war. Members of the armed forces were for the most part highly trained and many would be ready to go to work immediately on discharge.

Pensions Minister Mackenzie said plans for post-war projects are being drafted and "that will be one of the main jobs of the minister of reconstruction who is, to be appointed by the government."

Pope States Rome Should Be Saved Like Cairo, Athens

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—The Vatican radio quoted Pope Pius XII last night as saying that Cairo and Athens were saved from destruction by an agreement of belligerents and "Rome also should be saved." "Rome still, in spite of the war, is a centre of religion," said the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press. "The belligerents agreed to spare the monuments of Athens and Cairo and in the same way Rome should be saved. "The abbey of Mount Cassino already has been destroyed."

evident that the government of this country, by orders-in-council, and by other means, is effectually hindering organized labor in its efforts to improve industrial conditions of the workers in all walks of life; and

Whereas, it has been made plain that the passing of laws concerning the welfare of the working class, and the energetic enforcement of such laws, can best be obtained by the presence in parliament and provincial legislatures, of representatives elected from the ranks of labor for the direct interest of labor; and

Whereas, we believe that the C.C.F. party, represents and supports the workers of this country in the Dominion parliament, and provincial legislatures; therefore be it resolved:

That this Alberta Federation of Labor convention request its affiliated organizations to make a survey of the activities of the C.C.F. members of parliament on labor matters, and further to make a study of the policy and program of the C.C.F. party, with a view to giving full support to the political activities of that party.

The convention passed a resolution seeking an amendment to the Masters' and Servants' Act to include protection against dismissal without notice, except for cause and that such notice be based on the conditions of employment; one week's notice when employed weekly, and one month's notice when employed monthly.

UNANIMOUSLY PASSED

The Edmonton Street Railwaymen's International Union, No. 569, resolution seeking amendments to the Provincial Societies' Act to prevent its use for the purpose of replacing established trade unions was unanimously passed by the convention delegates.

Also passed was a resolution seeking the aid of the provincial government to prevent the closing of the Calgary rolling mill and the transfer of this industry to Winnipeg.

The convention passed a resolution calling on the Dominion government to take immediate steps to build mental hospitals throughout the Dominion for the care and treatment of such unfortunate members of the armed forces, who may require it.

This resolution was sponsored by the Civil Service Association and it was pointed out in its preamble that as a result of the physical and mental stress through which members of the armed services undergo while on active service a certain percentage unfortunately will require treatment in mental hospitals.

It is pointed out that provincial mental institutions are now overcrowded and will continue to be so, making it impossible to render this care and service to mental cases returning from the battlefields.

Rabaul Airdrome Again Battered By U.S. Bombers

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Feb. 23—Japan's air and shipping strength at Rabaul was reported at an "all-time low" today following the 18th consecutive day of Allied air raids on the New Britain base.

Reconnaissance units, which accompanied American medium bombers as they dropped 52 tons of explosives on Lakunai airdrome, observed only a few small cargo vessels, three small warships, and several hundred barges in the harbor—once the focal point for Japan's drive toward Australia.

Nazis Exploiting Conquered Lands For Great Sums

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—The Germans now are exploiting part of their conquered domain at a rate equivalent to about $10,400,000,000 annually, the House of Commons was told yesterday by Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Economic Warfare. In a written reply to a question, he said the estimate did not include any data on levies against occupied parts of Russia, Greece and Luxembourg, or those parts of Poland, France and Belgium which have been incorporated into the Reich.

Experiments tend to prove that smoking dulls man's sense of taste.

Nazi Planes Raid London During Night

LONDON, Feb. 23.—German planes penetrated London's terrific anti-aircraft barrage for the fourth time in five nights early today to give the capital its 713th air alert of the war.

The attack appeared heavier and more widespread than the previous four raids, though it still was far from the scale of the blitz raids of 1940-41.

Most damage was done in the suburbs but bombs also fell in southeast England the home counties. Reporting a number of casualties, some of them fatal, an official communique said at least seven of the raiders were shot down.

Three of the enemy aircraft destroyed were bagged by planes of the R.C.A.F.

CANUCKS SAVE HOSPITAL

In last night's German raid, three Canadian soldiers who refused to give their names, were credited with saving a hospital building which was threatened with destruction by fire.

An amusing incident occurred when another Canadian soldier trying to rescue a girl who had fainted on her bed when an incendiary fell in, got slapped for his pains when the girl came to.

An East Anglian town suffered one of it's worst raids, showers of incendiaries hitting the business and shopping district, causing large fires. Casualties, however, were few.

of American bombers, said the raiding forces lost 38 planes.)

Reports from the English Channel coast indicated that Allied bombers had resumed their assault on the French "rocket gun coast" today, following night forays by R.A.F. Mosquitos which heaped new destruction on enemy targets in southwestern and western Germany without loss.

A heavy bomber force, flying so high it was hardly visible, returned from the direction of Boulogne this afternoon, followed a few minutes later by a force of fighters.

FOLLOW TWIN BLOW

The new attacks followed a co-ordinated American assault yesterday from Britain and Italy in which 133 German fighters were counted out of the skies and key aircraft plants in four German cities were reduced to ruins.

The 8th U.S. Air Force carried the Allied offensive against German fighter plane production centres through its third day yesterday with attacks on Bernburg, Aschersleben and Halberstadt, all 80 to 105 miles southwest of Berlin, while the 15th Air Force in Italy joined in the assault with a raid on fighter plane factories at Regensburg, 250 miles south of Berlin.

BAG MANY NAZIS

Fighters which escorted British-based bombers to central Germany shot down 58 intercepting German planes, while the bombers accounted for a still-unannounced additional number.

Bombers from Italy shot down 40 out of 120 intercepting German planes during the attack on Regensburg, an Algiers communique announced.

The Mediterranean air forces accounted for an additional 10 enemy fighters in engagements over the Anzio beachhead below Rome.

Against those figures were American losses of 61 heavy bombers—41 of the Eighth Air Force and 20 of the 15th—two of the fighter escort from Italy, one from Britain and 10 others missing.

N.B. Legislature Begins Session

FREDERICTON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Establishment of a department of industry and reconstruction and a separate department of labor was forecast in the speech from the throne read yesterday by Lt.-Gov. W. G. Clark at the opening of the fifth session of New Brunswick's 39th legislature. Organization of the New Brunswick Resources Development Board, to promote and develop new industrial activities, also was announced.

Possibility European War May Enter 1945 Now Seen

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's reluctance yesterday even to hint at an Allied victory over Germany this year is shared in military and naval circles here. A strong belief has grown up that the European war could go on into 1945.

The clue to what will happen is an utterly immeasurable factor—German morale. A morale crack-up, under the pressure of reverses at the front and cumulative bombings at home, is what is meant by those who like Lord Halifax, British ambassador, hold that "anything can happen."

The best information is that the Germans still have sufficient productive capacity, resources and manpower and a sufficiently strong geographical position to maintain their resistance for another 12 months.

There is little enthusiasm in service quarters at present, therefore, for predictions that "X-day"—the war department's hypothetical date for defeat of Germany—will come before 1945.

It seems a safe bet that the war in Europe, judged by such things as the long-expected capture of Rome, is running behind schedule. Invasion preparations undoubtedly are being kept up to schedules agreed on at Teheran, and the Russian advance is believed to be progressing according to timetable.

But the Pacific war appears to be way ahead of schedule. Veteran commanders here are still surprised at the quick Japanese collapse at Kwajalein, key base in the Marshall Islands, and the astonishing raid on Truk.

HINTS WARSHIPS ARE GATHERING ON WEST COAST

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—First hint from a Canadian minister that United Nations naval forces are gathering on the west coast, presumably in preparation for an all-out offensive against the Japanese in the Pacific, was contained in a statement made yesterday in the Commons by Munitions Minister Howe.

After saying no relaxation of fuel oil restrictions could be permitted in British Columbia, the minister added: "Demands for heavy fuel oil from the west coast for the fleets of the United Nations require the full production of west coast refineries."

New Type Durum Wheat Developed

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23—(CP)—A new variety of Durum wheat, having outstanding agronomic and quality characteristics, has been developed, it was announced yesterday by the associate committee of grain research in convention here. The new variety is called Carleton, the committee said in a statement which recommended the variety to be increased for early distribution and classified as high grade Durum wheat.

President Vetoes New U.S. Tax Bill

By WILLIAM PEACOCK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The breach between the White House and congress widened yesterday when President Roosevelt vetoed the next tax bill with a stinging message and Democratic chairmen of tax-writing committees promptly backed its enactment over his disapproval.

With Republicans lining up almost solidly in favor of overriding the veto, there appeared to be a good chance that the necessary two-thirds majority would be mustered in both house of representatives and senate. The first test will come in the house Thursday.

Mr Roosevelt declared the measure sent to him was in some respects "not a tax bill but a tax relief bill providing relief not for the needy but for the greedy."

Cars in Manitoba Will Carry Metal Licenses in 1945

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Premier Stuart S. Garson said in the Manitoba legislature yesterday that motorists will get new metal licence plates in 1945. He said priority had been obtained from the Dominion metals controller for plates to replace the 1942 plates. Last year a small metal plate was attached to the 1942 licence and this year windshield stickers are being used with the 1944 licence number on them.

2,489 Army Men Have Tuberculosis

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Between Sept. 3, 1939, and Dec. 1 last year, 2,489 army men serving in Canada were discharged because of tuberculosis of various types, Pensions Minister Mackenzie reported yesterday in a return tabled in the Commons for Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (P.C.—Souris). The return said that from Sept. 3, 1939, to the end of 1943, 281 men were discharged from the air force in Canada and 98 from the navy in Canada for pulmonary tuberculosis.

Ash Wednesday Beginning of Lent

Shrove Tuesday has come and gone and today is Ash Wednesday—the first day of Lent, which, in the Christian church, is the period of fasting preparatory to the festival of Easter.

The word Lent originally meant spring, but since the period of fasting falls in the early part of the year, it became confused with the season, and gradually the word Lent was confined to use in describing the period.

The length of this fast and the rigor with which it has been observed have varied greatly at different times and in different countries.

At the present time, Lent is observed by practicing the duty of abstinence, either as discipline or as an exercise in self-denial, for the period beginning Ash Wednesday, and lasting through the Saturday noon before Easter Sunday.

Funeral Held For Former Resident

Funeral service for John Maxwell Strange, old-timer of Edmonton and the northern Alberta district, was held in Victoria last week. Mr. Strange died in a Vancouver hospital.

Born in Toronto, he first came to Edmonton in 1898 and he used to freight goods between Calgary and Edmonton. Later he operated a hotel at Ranfurly for about five years, moving from there to Wainwright, where he was well known as an agent for the John Deere Plow company for many years. He returned to Edmonton as general manager of the company, but in 1930 he retired due to ill health and moved to Victoria, B.C., where he has since resided.

He was a member of the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old Timers' Association.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Harold Grey of Victoria, two sons, George W. Strange, proprietor of the Automart, Edmonton, and PO. S. Maxwell Strange of the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Deny Allegations 'Gestapo Methods' Used by R.C.M.P.

CALGARY, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Emphatic denial of charges that R.C.M.P. Constable J. M. Carter had used "Gestapo methods" in arresting John Lavine Adams at Exshaw last June, and an equally emphatic statement that the "4 a.m. court" at which Adams was convicted was convened only at the insistence of the accused, were made before Alberta appeal court yesterday by C. S. Blanchard, agent for the attorney-general.

The appeal court judges, who Monday quashed Adams' conviction by Magistrate A. G. Court of Banff on a charge of breaking and entering the home of Roy Zeller at Exshaw, reserved judgment yesterday on Adams' appeal against conviction and sentence to six months in jail on a charge of resisting a police officer.

Total R.C.A.F. War Casualties Exceed 11,000

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Total casualties in the R.C.A.F. since the outbreak of war now exceed 11,000, navy casualties are more than 1,100 and merchant navy casualties are more than 1,200 official spokesmen for the two services and the transport department said yesterday.

Official army figures were not available, defence headquarters said. An unofficial compilation set total army casualties at about 11,700.

Here is an unofficial breakdown of approximate Canadian figures:

Army—Killed, 2,765; missing, 1,114; prisoners 3,338; wounded 4,490.

Navy—Killed 1,084; missing five; prisoners nine; wounded 159.

R.C.A.F.—Killed 7,876; missing 2,005; prisoners 1,117.

Merchant navy—Killed and missing while serving in Canadian ships, 660; killed and missing while serving in ships of other United Nations, approximately 600.

Howe Hints Major Operations Coming Within "4 Months"

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP)—A hint of major Allied military operations "Within the next three or four months" was given in the house of commons last night by Munitions Minister Howe.

Speaking of shipbuilding at Pictou, N.S., yards, Mr. Howe said 4,700-ton ships, "Vitally important at this time," were being constructed there. He added:

"I can say to the house that within the last three weeks we have had most urgent cables for help in delivering 4,700-ton ships to Great Britain, urgently needed for operations within the next three or four months."

Civic Employees Reject Wage Offer

Members of the Federation of Civic Employees have rejected the wage and working conditions offer made them by the city commissioners for 1944, it was announced Wednesday by Mayor John W. Fry.

The commissioners offered an increase of two per cent on salaries, the incorporation of the cost-of-living bonus in the basic salary rate, and an increase in the amount of bonus paid to single employees.

Commissoiner John Hodgson stated that the rejection of the offer would be reported to city council, and if a solution to the situation is not found a board of arbitration will be sought to deal with the dispute.

The federation asked for a $20 a month increase for all monthly classifications, and a commensurate increase for those employed on hourly basis. Minor adjustments in working conditions also were requested.

Officers Receive U.S. Army Awards

Awards for exceptional service were made in an official ceremony Tuesday, to two United States Army officers by Brig.-Gen. L. D. Worsham, commanding general of the Northwest Service Command.

The Legion of Merit, recently awarded by the U.S. War department to Lt.-Col. Ora F. Roberts, was pinned on that officer's blouse by General Worsham while a similar ceremony was performed in the case of Maj. W. T. Joyce, commanding officer of the U.S. military hospital here. Maj. Joyce received the Soldier's Medal.

Lt.-Col. Roberts received his award for exceptional services in construction of a telephone line to Alaska.

Maj. Joyce was decorated for bravery beyond the call of duty in making a hazardous plane trip from Whitehorse to a northern outpost in bad weather to perform an operation on a sick U.S. sergeant.

Index Drops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The cost of living index in the United States showed a drop of two-tenths of one per cent between mid-December and mid-January, Labor Secretary Frances Perkins reported yesterday.

EVERY business started as an idea in the mind of some individual. Every shop—every farm — every factory — every worthwhile enterprise from banks to movie theatres, came into being because some individual had faith in an idea and the courage to back it.

Every Canadian has this right . . . the right to build his future in his own way—to go into business for himself if he chooses—and to reap the reward of his enterprise. So it has always been. That is the very essence of our free way of life, the solid foundation of our greatness as a nation.

$60,000 Saved Motorists on License Fees

nearly 50 per cent of the cars now operating in Alberta, Mr. Hooke stated.

The motor license debate brought forth an amendment proposed by Gordon Lee, Social Credit M.L.A. for Athabasca, and an amendment to the amendment, proposed by George MacLachlan, Independent M.L.A., for Pembina.

FIRST DIVISION

First division of the 1944 session was called over Mr. MacLachlan's amendment, which was lost by a vote of 33 to 14. It asked for a reduction of 20 per cent. in the license fees of all motorists who are allowed "AA" and "A" gasoline ration categories.

In the division, 14 Independent M.L.A.'s voted solidly for its adoption, with 30 Social Credit M.L.A.'s, and A. J. Morrison, Labor M.L.A. for Edson; E. E. Roper, C.C.F. M.L.A. for Edmonton; and C. A. Reynolds, Independent Social Credit M.L.A. for Stettler, voting with the government.

Mr. Page's original resolution read: "Whereas the rationing of gasoline has greatly restricted the use to which automobiles can be put at the present time; be it

"Resolved that in the opinion of this assembly, automobile license fees should be reduced by 20 per cent."

Mr. Lee's amendment, seconded by A. V. Bourcier, Social Credit M.L.A. for Lac Ste. Anne and Social Credit whip, moved this amendment:

ASKS SUBSTITUTION

"That all words after the word 'assembly' where it occurs in the resolution be struck out, and the following substituted:

"The government should be commended for the policy of granting a refund of 20 per cent. in license fees on plates returned before Jan. 10, and in granting a reduction of 40 per cent. in license fees on plates taken out on or after Sept. 30, and a reduction of 75 per cent. in license fees on plates taken out on or after Jan. 1; and

"Be it further resolved that the Assembly endorse the policy of the government as announced by the honorable the provincial secretary, of granting graduated reduction in the license fees on all models of automobiles of 1934 or earlier."

This amendment was put and carried unanimously on a voice vote, after the MacLachlan amendment to the amendment was defeated. The original motion, as amended, was then read and declared carried unanimously, by Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson.

When Mr. Page moved his resolution, he said he felt motor licenses and other fees were matters of equity, and were imposed for services received. The licenses had been imposed in normal times, but times were no lonegr normal, and it was no longer a matter of equity. He recalled that last year, when the question of license reductions was under discussion, the government had stated frankly that it needed the money.

CITES TWO POINTS

Two factors which the Edmonton M.L.A. discussed were the greatly reduced number of miles it is now possible to drive in a year, and the present reduced octane rating of gasoline.

He made a reference to the British Columbia government's action in cutting licenses by 20 per cent, and pointed out that the Hon. John Hart, B.C. premier, had stated that while this reduction would cost $400,000, an increase of $15,000 in motor revenue was anticipated in 1944.

Mr. Hooke, rising to speak in the debate, said it was an easy matter for the opposition to urge tax reductions, and road improvements, and he was able to understand that attitude.

He declared he would like to see taxes reduced, and improved services given the public, and the thing to do is to have the economic system changed so these things can be brought about.

The provincial secretary continued to say that in British Columbia, a $10 registration fee is imposed on all automobiles, and that province gets $300,000 from these fees, which is 20 per cent of Alberta's total license revenue fees.

DESCRIBES REGULATIONS

He then described the 1937 regulations which set out reduction of fees on motor vehicles made in 1929 or earlier, as follows:

Not over 100-inch wheelbase, $8; not over 105 inches, $10; not over 110 inches, $12; and over 110 inches, $15.

When that reduction system was set up, it affected 30,450 cars, the minister said, many of which were owned by farmers. He recalled that in 1937 also, the government had instituted a rebate system, whereby 20 per cent of license fees are returned if the license plates are turned in during winter months.

Rebate figures quoted by Mr. Hooke for the ensuing years were as follows: 1937-38, 15,700; 1938-39, 12,800; 1939-40, 10,700; 1940-41, 9,450; 1941-42, 8,339; 1942-43, 5,570; and for 1943-44, 2,578.

67,120 TURND BACK

In all, 67,120 owners had turned back their plates over this period, and had received $204,371 in refunds. Comparing the number of refunds made in the first year the rebate plan operated, compared to last year, 19½ per cent of licensees in the province took advantage of the plan in its first year, and only two and four-fifths per cent last year.

Mr. Hooke said the government had decided the best plan was to take all cars made between the years 1929 and 1934 inclusive, and place them in the same category as cars made before 1929, so that license fees for them will be between $8 and $15, depending on wheelbase.

The provincial secretary also pointed out that this province gives a 40 per cent reduction in car licenses taken out after Sept. 30, and and a 75 per cent reduction on licenses taken out after Dec. 31. It is the only province where a double reduction of this kind is given, he stated.

COMPLETE REFUNDS

He also said that in future, the province is to refund the whole of the unused portion of a license, where a motorist leaves the province, or his car is damaged beyond repair. Before, the rate was a one-half rebate.

Mr. Hooke pointed out that since 1937, reductions given to motorists have amounted to $892,395, to which when refunds of $204,371 are added, gives reductions totalling $1,096,000 in license fees. The new reduction just announced would mean a further saving of $60,000 for car owenrs.

J. C. Mahaffy, K.C., Independent M.L.A. for Calgary, speaking against the government's license reduction plan, said it was not fair to show favoritism to a person driving a fairly old car. He also said the government had actually increased license fees in one respect, because a car that carried a $15 license a few years ago, now cost $25, because the manufacturer had increased the wheelbase of that car.

Mr. Mahaffy spoke in commendation of the California and Ontario plan of low license fees.

MACLACHLAN SPEAKS

Mr. MacLachlan, the next speaker, said that the refunds in license plates, as quoted by Mr. Hooke, had dropped because of the mild winter this year.

He said he was in agreement with the bringing up to date of motor license reductions on older cars, and stated that those who have "C" and "D" gasoline ration categories and have plenty of gasoline, were not entitled to a license reduction, but that those in "A" and "AA" categories were.

Mr. Hooke, who spoke in reply to Mr. MacLachlan's amendment, regarding limiting the license reduction to those who hold "A" and "AA" categories, said it had been found impossible to know who held categories other than "AA", because the Dominion authorities issue special categories, and the province issues the "AA" books to all auto owners.

Diefenbaker Speaks

Independence of Members In House Said Threatened By Stand on Allegations

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) said yesterday in the Commons he sees a threat to the independence of members of parliament in the methods adopted by government supporters in dealing with allegations of M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, concerning operations of Aluminum Co. of Canada.

Mr. Coldwell made his allegations last session and they were investigated by the war expenditures committee on which Mr. Coldwell was a member. The committee reported they were without foundation and this report was under discussion in the house.

As an amendment to a motion to concur in the report, opposition members were asking for tabling of all the evidence taken by the committee.

RIGHT TO EVIDENCE

"We have a right to the evidence unexpurgated by any committee," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "If we do not demand it in this case . . . there is not a member who, making a statement in this house, might not—if the government saw fit to submit the matter to a favorable committee—be found not to have stated the truth; be found to have made false allegations.

"We have lost our rights in recent years. There has been a diminution of those rights all along the line."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King might again suggest a general election unless opposition members were "servile." Mr. Diefenbaker said. But members had a duty to uphold the rights of other members.

MEETINGS NOT SECRET

The fact the committee meetings were held in camera was no excuse for non-production of the evidence. The meetings were not in secret.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the committee had no power to report wrongdoing or examples of extravagance to the house or public. A guardian of the treasury had been created and then muzzled.

He had brought the attention of the house to high profits being made by civilian air training schools and action had been taken but not through the war expenditures committee, said Mr. Diefenbaker, adding::

"We are faced with the position that if we assert our independence and speak out we are charged with not co-operating in the war effort."

Members should not be asked to concur in the report, and it should be withdrawn, he suggested.

OPPOSE TABLING

Various government supporters expressed opposition to tabling of the evidence, on the ground the British and Australian governments, holding large contracts with Aluminum Co., of Canada, had permitted an investigation of the contracts by the committee only on the understanding the details would remain secret, they said.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government had no desire to press to a vote the motion for approval of the committee's report. It had permitted the motion, he added, solely for the purpose of accommodating opposition members who wanted to speak on the work of the committee last session.

Harry Jackman (P.C.-Toronto Rosedale), a member of the committee, supported the tabling proposal on the ground Mr. Coldwell's speech Monday, in which he said the report was designed to "whitewash" the company and to accept it would do violence to one's intelligence, was a reflection on the whole committee and on the house.

Real Disarmament

In 36 hours Allied bombers tossed 10,000 tons of explosives into Hitler's war machinery. Not many of the bombs were dropped in Berlin and apparently none in the Ruhr. Those areas, which Goering promised complete immunity against air attack, have been so immobilized that they offer few worth-while targets. The important centres of enemy production now are those which a year ago were rated of minor value. The big ones have been knocked out. Now the smaller centres are being struck off the production map.

The Nazi forces are estimated at 4,500,000 men. Though a large per centage of these are second line troops, that is a huge army. But numbers do not count for much in modern war when equipment gets scarce, and the equipment problem must be giving the Fuehrer nightmares. The factories and railways blown up by Allied bombers may have been as heavy a blow to the enemy strength as the loss of 316,000 men killed and captured by the Russians since Christmas.

Divorce Remedies

Alarmed by the current increase in the divorce rate, the British Columbia legislature proposes to establish the office of king's proctor. This innovation was suggested some months ago by Chief Justice Farris who pointed out that a king's proctor, as in England, is charged with the task of acting as intermediary in divorce and domestic relations cases and with preventing collusion in such actions.

The appointment of a king's proctor might obviate some irregularities in divorce evidence. It might prevent the filing of some few suits.

But why complicate the machinery of divorce when the same result can be much more effectively achieved by tightening the machinery of marriage? In short, the security of matrimony is best attained, not by making divorces more difficult, but by making marriage more difficult.

Divorce increases as marriage becomes more hasty and ill-considered. A deliberate and well-considered marriage seldom comes apart.

A law providing for a longer interval between the issue of a license and the performance of the ceremony, for medical examinations, and for careful investigation of marital candidates, would do more to brake the acceleration of divorce than a dozen king's proctors.

A Great Tradition

In the midst of heated discussions about juvenile delinquency and other spiritual ailments of childhood comes Boy Scout and Girl Guide Week to offer, in a quiet and unobtrusive way, the ultimate solution to all such vexing problems.

For the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides and, in a less direct way, the Canadian Girls in Training are all fruits of a great moral tradition which attacks juvenile delinquency in its very fundamentals.

That tradition, emphasized so devotedly and excellently by Lord Baden-Powell, is based on the very simple formula that if you give children self-respect and interesting things to do they will not turn out wrong. If you align them early enough with the principles of decency and service, they seldom wander from that path.

The great concept of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides and the C.G.I.T. too, for that matter, is that the useful and ennobling things of life are much more interesting and dramatic than the selfish and squalid things of life.

On that proposition, the organizations founded by Baden-Powell have attained a heroic place in the life of many nations.

It is a magnificent tradition that has been translated into effective reality. And to all those who have a part in these movements the people of Canada wish God speed.

Election Speculations

Prime Minister Mackenzie King indulges in a sharp passage in the House of Commons with a Progressive Conservative member and immediately the news wires are hot with election speculations.

Undoubtedly Mr. King did permit himself, in the heat of the moment, a veiled reference to an appeal to the people. But the dialogue led naturally up to it. His remark was in perfectly logical sequence to the conversational exchange immediately preceding it.

The significance of this incident does not lie in whether or not Mr. King's remark foreshadows an election this year, but in the fact that the Canadian people are so extraordinarily election-conscious that every casual statement that might bear on an election sets the political prophets a-twittering.

Now what is the source of this amazing susceptibility to election hints? What has given the Canadian people this superacute interest in election prospects during the past few months?

The fact that the Canadian people know that if Mr. King goes to the country without implementing the financial and social reforms promised in the Throne Speech, this country might have to wait another five years for those reforms or get them diluted in a highly unpalatable doctrinal context.

Canadians are not sensitive to election hints because they want an election, but because they fear a precipitate election might postpone social and monetary reform.

And the desire of Canadians for social and monetary reform is almost unanimous.

All in the Boat

"My information shows that Hitler and his police are still in control in Germany, and that the Nazi party and the German generals have decided to stick together."

This sentence from Mr. Churchill's speech yesterday disposes of the flood of rumors that the party and the military caste had fallen out. It equally negatives the reports that one faction or the other has been entertaining hopes to secure a negotiated peace by putting the war blame on the other. No one on the Allied side is better informed on the subject than Mr. Churchill, and it can be taken that his statement is in line with the facts.

In any case if this war is to see the finish of the Bismarckian tradition which has kept Europe in terror and plunged it into five wars, the downfall of Hitler and the dissolution of the Nazi party alone would not accomplish that purpose. Back of the Fuehrer and the party is the permanent, official or unofficial, General Staff, composed of Prussian land-barons whose perpetual object is conquest. For the moment Hitler is their tool, as the Kaiser was a quarter of a century ago. To those inheritors of the aggressive impulse, war is the normal occupation, peace only a necessary interval in which to prepare. They are the real masters of Germany, and while they hold power to either influence or dictate the national policy there can be no such thing as permanent peace for Germany's neighbors.

The militarists would sacrifice Hitler for a truce any day, as they made Wilhelm a scapegoat and obtained an armistice in 1918. Unless we are to have another war twenty or thirty years hence, this Prussian gang must be wiped out, along with their Nazis tools and "geopolitic" propagandists.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1894: 50 Years Ago

A farmer of the Sturgeon settlement gives the following statement which has a pointed bearing on the question of freight rates. Last year he raised 3,000 bushels of oats, of which 2,500 bushels were for sale. This amount of oats was worth $600 and would have occupied a month in hauling it to market. Last summer he brought $900 worth of pork to town in just three loads.

F. W. Battrick, Methodist missionary at Sturgeon River, preached in the Methodist church, Edmonton, Sunday morning.

The proprietors of the coal mines now being operated near Rabbit Hill desire that their properties shall be known hereafter as the White Star mines.

Nine parcels of land on the Indian reserve just south of South Edmonton have been sold this month, at prices varying from $3.75 to $4.25 per acre.

A letter received by Mayor McCauley from Hon. J. A. Ouimet, minister of public works, conveys the information that the engineer's estimate of the cost of the bridge is $66,000 of which sum the minister understands the town is willing to subscribe $20,000.

Erastus Wiman of New York has been arrested on a charge of forgeries amounting to $238,000 and was committed to trial in default of $25,000 bail. The charge is made by R. G. Dunn in connection with the business of the firm of Dunn, Wiman and Co., Ottawa.

1904: 40 Years Ago

London: The Russian Baltic squadron may remain in the Baltic. Recognition of the strength of the Japanese fleet has occasioned the reported change of mind at St. Petersburg. Benckendorf, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, has been summoned home. It is said his views are desired as to the prospect of Britain joining Russia in certain eventualities.

St. Petersburg: It is reported that the Russian advance guard on the Yalu river has been driven back with a loss of 2,500 men.

Washington: Three United States warships are now in Chinese waters for the protection of American lives and interests.

1914: 30 Years Ago

Bellingham, Wash.: Three Vancouver passengers on a Great Northern train who resisted three bandits were shot dead.

El Paso, Texas: United States citizens, refugees from Mexico, passed resolutions here strongly condemning the inaction of the United States government in respect to the treatment of its nationals in Mexico.

The city council has decided that the city will do its own scavenging and save $25,000 per year.

Thus far $18,000 has been spent in relief work on streets and in the parks. The streets department values the work done at $8,000 while the park department is willing to allow $1,250 for the work done in the parks.

1924: 20 Years Ago

The Edmonton public school board threatens to close the schools if the city council does not provide the $1,150,000 asked for.

Dr. Robert Magill and Aaron Sapiro debated the merits and demerits of the present grain marketing system before a Saskatoon audience.

Net earnings of the Canadian National Railways increased $17,000,000 during 1923.

The Prince of Wales will recognize the Edmonton spring show by offering a trophy in the calf feeding contest.

1934: 10 Years Ago

Vienna: A Socialist swing to the Nazis threatens the downfall of the Dollfuss government.

Berlin: Chancellor Hitler broke a tradition when he called at the British embassy, thus giving rise to rumors that he has been won over to the British disarmament scheme.

Addressing the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Sir Henry Drayton said cheap money is necessary if Canada is to pull itself out of the depression and get back to normal prosperity.

Declining Rates of Interest

Appropriate Money Policy Can Prevent Any Mass Unemployment

By E. S. WOODWARD,
in the Vancouver Province.

Mr. Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, has announced a cut in the bank's rediscount rate from 2½% to 1½%. This will be regarded by the chartered banks as a full-steam-ahead signal. They are officially authorized to extend loans and encourage industry to adapt itself to rapidly changing circumstances. While in some directions war orders will continue to dominate industry to the exclusion of everything, in other directions the shift-over from wartime to peacetime production is already under way.

In actual practice, the chartered banks make very little use of their rediscounting privileges. By adhering to an ultra-conservative lending policy, the commercial banks avoid the necessity. The reduction in the rediscount rate is intended to inaugurate a more liberal lending policy by safeguarding the banks against any possibility of shortage of cash reserves.

Revision

There is point to the suggestion that the move is semi-political. The Bank Act is due to come up for revision this year. From the standpoint of the banking system, it would be good business to have that revision take place in an atmosphere of general contentment. A period of easier money would do nothing to abate the criticism of the thorough-going money reformers, but it would do much to dampen the enthusiasm amongst their potential supporters.

Bank revisions are not unlike elections. Prosperity and fair weather ahead, generates contentment with the status quo. Distress and uncertainty ahead, generates demand for drastic change. It is not to anyone's discredit to say that the bankers are good business men and shrewd politicians.

Whilst conceding the political implications of the Bank of Canada's announcement, it would be a mistake to conclude that there is any chicanery about it, or that the rate will be raised again when the bank revision is past. All the bank statements this year and all the annual addresses of the bank presidents, have stressed opposition to socialization and state control of economic life. And they have also stressed confidence in the competence of private enterprise to provide remunerative work for everybody and to promote the common welfare.

This is an entirely new position of the utmost importance and significance. It has never happened before in the history of capitalistic production. The easier money policy is the sure sign that the bankers have already started on the new tack.

Easy Money

Not the least significant aspect of the new easy money policy is that it registers the acceptance by the banking fraternity of notions which were decidedly heretical 15 to 20 years ago. At that time, the connection betwen monetary policy and industrial depression was stoutly denied. Every banker in the country flouted the idea that monetary policy was even a contributory cause of economic breakdawn.

Now, quite easily and without the slightest friction, the whole banking system is committed to the idea that mass unemployment and industrial breakdown are preventable and that appropriate monetary policy can go a long way to assist in preventing them.

Looking backward, we can now see that the publication in 1936 of Lord Keynes' great book "The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money" marked the turning point. Appalled by the confusion amongst economists about the causes of the 1929-35 world depression, and ashamed of their pathetic helplessness to prescribe any remedies to heal the distresses of mankind, Keynes re-examined all the accepted theories in which he had been trained and which he had consistently taught.

Results

The results were truly amazing. He discovered that the whole structure of orthodox economic science was founded on the fallacious assumption that mass unemployment was an impossibility. Starting with the assumption that everybody and everything must of necessity be working to capacity, it proceeded to argue quite logically from that false premise, Keynes did not challenge their logic. He simply called attention to the rotten foundation.

"The charactersists assumed by the classical theory happen not to be those of the economic society in which we actually live, with the result that its teaching is misleading and disastrous if we attempt to apply it to the facts of experience. It may well be that the classical theory represents the way in which we should like our economy to behave. But to assume that it does no is to assume our difficulties away."

Having thus blasted orothodox economic theory beyond hope of its recovery, Keynes proceeded to lay a firmer foundation for an economy of full employment and prosperity. Briefly summarizing an abstruse argument, Keynes reached the conclusion that money is effective demand. If demand is to equate capacity use of men and materials, money must be available in adequate quantity, and at a low interest rate.

Equally important it must be immune to hoarding and must always be actually used to purchase promptly the products of the industrial system. Incidentally, he admitted that Karl Marx, Silvio Gesell, Major Douglas, and J. A. Hobson have been on the right track all along.

Wants Explanation

Editor, Bulletin: In your issue of Feb. 19 you published a letter written by J. H. Dowler of 9821 90 Ave., wherein he makes the following statements: "It is time that Social Crediters and monetary reformists of all kinds quit fooling the people"; "It can be proved in fifteen minutes to any intelligent, open-minded person, that there is no deficiency in the quantity of money that enters into active circulation, and the total price of all goods and services that come one the market for consumption."

The past has seen—and, very possibly the future will see—the murder of a beautiful theory, by a gang of brutal facts. Therefore, would J. H. Dowler please enlarge on his last named statement by an explanation which cannot be successfully contradicted.

Tyrants Beware

Editor Bulletin: The New York "Times" very aptly describes the attack of "Izvestia," the Moscow government organ, on the Vatican as an incendiary bomb made in Moscow. The "Times" says: "It ought to be well enough informed to know that the Vatican as a temporal power is a neutral state with which Russia's two great allies, Britain and the United States, have friendly and confident relations." It further says, "that this attack is damaging to the unity of the allied powers, on which victory depends."

This is stating the case very mildly. For if the unity of Christendom at its very centre is assailed, what is left in this seething world of hate and barbarism? Can Moscow through its very small clique speak for the vast millions of Russia, for these great people are Christian, not Communist? Their noble armies too are fighting for the four freedoms proclaimed by the Allied leaders; and one of these is the freedom of religion. And they mean to get it. Can any dictator, however mighty, rule out by the stroke of the pen this spiritual power, the Vatican, that has now for 1900 years shed its benign influence upon humanity, and that has changed a pagan and enslaved Europe into an ordered and Christian civilization, and one that still remains today the most vital power for peace and order in the world?

History is replete with examples of catastrophies that have overtaken tyrants and persecutors in the hour of their pride.

Let "Izvestia" and its standard bearers remember the fate of the Egyptian pagan army when the Red Sea closed upon that mighty host that would destroy the fleeing army of the chosen Israelites under their prophet Moses.

Let them read again how that same Vatican that they now deride without arms and any other human power hurled back time and time again in fear and terror those savage hosts under Alaric, 410 A.D., and again those under Attila the Hun, 452 A.D., that "scourge of God," who would sack and lay waste the holy places of that same Vatican in Rome.

It was the year 452 A.D. The lone Pope Leo I met these savages of Attila at the gate of Rome and threatened dire disaster to them should they desecrate the holy places of God. All writers, both pagan and Christian, agree in this, that the barbarous host turned and fled in fear and terror from the place, became disbanded, scattered, and pillaged and ravaged no more. And more than one historian has written that they had seen a vision of the eternal retribution that awaited all evil doers.

Alaric and his savages had sacked Rome in the year 410 A.D., but had left untouched the Vatican and its treasures at the warning of the Pope Innocent I. Alaric met death that same year. Attila fled the gates of Rome in 452 A.D., and died 453 A.D., while celebrating his marriage feast.

The Moslem hordes had swept over a large part of Europe and North Africa during the 16th century. They too were to overcome the Vatican. The crisis came in 1571. Ali Pasha, the Turkish Sultan, boasted that he would stable his horses in the Vatican on the Christmas of that year. Pope Pius V decreed a crusade of prayer, The Rosary, throughout the Catholic states of Europe, beginning on Oct. 1. The great battle of Lepanto in the Aegean Sea on Oct. 7 decided the issue. The Moslem fleet of 274 ships was sunk or captured with all on board, including Ali Pasha, who had made his boast. No more threats from that quarter since. The Moslem power in Europe at least was gone.

Napoleon was perhaps the greatest military strategist of all time. In his career of conquest throughaut Europe he laid unholy hands upon the temporal power of Pius VII, taking the Pope prisoner. Napoleon's prestige declined from that hour. His first Waterloo came in the winter of 1812 with the loss of almost all his magnificent army on the frozen steppes of Russia in its retreat from Moscow. His end came in his second and final Waterloo in Belgium in June, 1815. He died a prisoner in exile deeply repentant for his many national crimes.

Finally Bismarck of Germany, that forerunner of Hitler, made his boast that he would destroy the Catholic church in Germany which was his greatest obstacle to his paganizing process of his country, which he carried to a near success for 20 years. Bismarck laid well the foundation for the present Godless and unholy National Socialism of the tyrant Hitler. Bismarck, too, went the way of all flesh. He was dismissed from office in 1890 and died shortly after, another dejected and rejected Nero. Let all dictators and unchristian tyrants beware.

Duty of Statesmen

Editor, Bulletin: If we live worthily of the Empire, it is necessary that we are aware of the stupendous size of Russia the United States and (later) China, so that we should be able to meet the situation in which a changing era places us.

Britain's problem is the Empire, politically, industrially, etc.; hence it is the duty of statesmen to know and understand what we are doing. Were any part of it to go alone, the whole law of average would be against "us."

Britain's 45,000,000 in the passage of time, can not adjust itself to the Soviet rising population. And while we admire Russia as we have never admired her before, she, comparing to ourselves, is politically immature.

Nevertheless, in her foreign policy she reveals penetrating foresight, and while the careless thinking have managed to convey that Soviet Russia is not expansionist we must analyze by actions. Obviously Stalin likes Asia, has visions of Russia becoming a great Eurasian Empire. Further let us not overlook this fact—the tremendous area covered by Asiatic Russia and the vast potential resources this area contains.

It is only by the unity of all our peoples; all our democratic strivings, ideals and sorrows; shall we be able to meet the restless currents and tremendous conditions of the future.

Punishment Pay

Editor Bulletin: Governments have learned from experience that public opinion, once it has protested to its own satisfaction, could be reconciled to anything, so why be concerned at an occasional hauling over coals that will presently be ashes.

What of the "burntout" cases of World War I, and their punishment —pay of $20 per month?

Apparently the general public of Canada, in 25 years, has not been stirred to decisive action in correcting this shameful fact.

Wherein lies the hope of adequate pensions to the thousands of oncoming casualties of World War II, men and women crippled in body and mind who may be left to rot out their broken lives in appalling poverty.

Day Off

Editor, Bulletin: Under the present 5½-day week, war workers are unable to visit a bank or an office, as these are closed on Saturday afternoons.

It would be much better if we worked all day one Saturday and were off all day the next Saturday.

It would be a great saving of gasoline and there would be less absenteeism, as we have sometimes to stay off work to do business which we can not possibly do otherwise.

I hope the authorities concerned will give this matter their early attention.

The Divine Rule?

Editor, Bulletin: It is often argued—and not infrequently by ardent church-goers—that inequality is the divine rule since we are born with unequal potential attributes of intelligence, will-power and emotional balance, as well as with different physical constitutions.

Consequently they often support the easy view of "laissez-faire" in questions of perfectly preventable injustices.

This fatalistic attitude is understandable among the adherents of oriental religions who believe that men are born with a deserved destiny of handicaps which each one must bear alone.

But with us who are "our brothers' keepers" and "co-workers with God" it seems illogical not to give our full support to measures like, for example, "a more equitable repartition of profits," replacing efficiently—in modern times—our unfair, spasmodic, uncertain, and inadequate "charities." Material relief first—then, higher, much needed, human development will ensue.

We sometimes forget that we arrive in, and depart from, this world completely destitute. Perfect, divine equality reigns there.

Soviet Policy

Editor, Bulletin: In last Saturday's Bulletin there appeared a letter by Rev. C. J. Foran seeking to correct a resume of an article in Izvestia, the official Soviet paper. I have not read the resume but there are certain parts of his letter which I am unable to let pass.

The Spanish Loyalist government was legitimately elected, but the Vatican very definitely took sides with the Fascist rebels who imposed themselves on the Spanish people.

That anyone would call the Russian advance into Poland in 1939 a "stab in the back," seems incredible. At the time it seemed so, but events since have proved that Russia did the sensible thing both then and in her later attack on Finland with its pro-Nazi government. Of any other "knifing" by the Soviet government I have never heard. Since Russia entered the League of Nations in the early '30's she consistently supported league moves against aggressor nations and as consistently supported the nations which had been attacked, but which the league was indisposed to aid. She was treated with mistrust and the cold-shoulder while her own internal program demanded world peace at almost any price. The British-U.S.-Darlan deal of a year ago made more than the Russians wonder about allied foreign policy.

I fail to see how historians of any future time can blame the U.S.S.R. for this present conflict. It has come upon us primarily because the nations united at Geneva failed to collectively back their fellow nations who were victims of aggression. Why they failed is an interesting question.

French-Canadians

Editor, Bulletin: It has always struck me as peculiar that if an English-speaking person dares to criticize the French-Canadian outlook he is likely to be accused of fomenting racial strife. On the other hand the French-speaking citizen considers it to be well within his rights to criticize British institutions, the British Commonwealth, and the beliefs of his English-speaking counterpart. One has only to read the daily newspapers and note the speeches of certain French-speaking members in and out of parliament to see to what extent they use this privilege. In this letter I propose to borrow a little along these lines.

Lord Halifax made a speech the other day which seemed to enrage certain members. He was repeatedly described as a "foreigner" and a "foreign ambassador." Apparently this description met with the approval of the prime minister and all the members. I read of no objections. Since when did a subject of His Majesty become a foreigner in Canada?

The Bloc heads met in Quebec and formulated a "platform." Plank No. 1 is "Absolute independence for Canada." Most of us are under the impression that we have all the independence possible in this imperfect world. However, these gentlemen made it clear that to them absolute independence means complete severance of all ties and relations with the British Commonwealth. In other words, treat them as we do an enemy.

Reading further I find we are not to be so very independent after all. Plank 5 states we are to enter into "immediate membership in the Pan-American Union." Does not such membership require us to assume certain obligations? What then becomes of our "absolute independence?"

I know of no reason why we should not join, but is it consistent? Consider the proposition. We are to be asked to throw over our own brothers and accept in their stead our Portuguese and Spanish American cousins! With all due respect to the citizens of the South American Republics, I don't think we'll make the trade.

The other planks are not worth mentioning. That one about "racial equality" is in again. As usual this means appoint him because he is French-speaking, not because he is fit for the job.

At regular intervals some members call for a limited war effort. Just how limited is not stated, but we can guess. When a man fights for his existence does he pull his punches?

make public the evidence taken by the committee in secret. Just at adjournment Mr. King moved to set up another committee for this session.

Mr. Graydon said his followers were opposed because secret sessions made the committee of little use. Progressive Conservatives on the committee reserved their right to refuse to sit at any secret meetings, he said.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, said they were in favor of a 1944 committee but wanted open sittings as far as would be consistent with security.

HOUSE IN UPROAR

With the house in an uproar, Mr. King and Mr. Graydon stood beside their desks and shouted at each other, while Speaker J. A. Glen waited for them to be seated.

Mr. Graydon rose after Mr. King said there appeared to be a political motive in Progressive Conservative tactics; an effort to make "political capital."

"It is a question of privilege; I want the prime minister to sit down," said Mr. Graydon pointing to Mr. King and waving him down.

There was a tumult of applause from the Progressive Conservatives and protest from the government benches.

Mr. King stood straight beside his desk, then took a pace forward.

GRAYDON INTERRUPTS

"I ask my friend . . ." he began, but Mr. Graydon said a question of privilege took precedence.

"I ask him (Mr. King) to sit down," he repeated.

"I won't sit down at my friend's request," said Mr. King, looking toward the speaker. He said he obeyed the speaker of the house, not the leader of the opposition.

Members thumped their desks, rattled the lids and shouted as the two leaders, who could not be heard above the din, stood facing each other.

When they could be heard again Mr. King repeated that Mr. Graydon could not tell him to sit down.

Then the prime minister glanced at Speaker Glen who was motioning the leaders to take their seats. Mr. King sat down and after a moment Mr. Graydon also took his seat.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Mr. Graydon then rose on his point of privilege and said Mr. King had made a serious charge against the Progressive Conservative group by indicating that instead of co-operating in the war effort it was making efforts toward winning an election.

The Liberals broke into cheers that interrupted Mr. Graydon for a moment.

When he continued he said the prime minister's statement was not becoming to him and he should make a withdrawal.

Speaker Glen said there had been no charge against the leader of the opposition. Government members applauded this ruling and Speaker Glen called for order.

The motion appointing a new expenditure committee then was approved without a vote and the House adjourned at 11:25 p.m., 25 minutes after the normal time.

Earlier in the evening Munitions Minister Howe said in the Commons he is going to build ships anywhere I can build them" as long as they are urgently needed.

DISCUSS SHIPBUILDING

The war expenditures debate turned to shipbuilding after the House turned down by a vote of 118 to 50 a motion to table evidence taken by the committee at its secret sittings last year.

The opposition groups all voted for tabling and Liberals voted against.

Earlier in the night, Tom Reid (L.—New Westminster) said members of the war expenditures committee had assured witnesses the evidence they gave would be kept secret.

He spoke in opposition to a Progressive Conservative move to have evidence heard by the committee tabled in the house, in addition to the formal committee report.

The war expenditures committee chairman, Hughes Cleaver (L.-Halton) had moved concurrence in the report and the Progressive Conservative amendment, moved by Joseph Harris (P.C.-Toronto Danforth) asked that all evidence be tabled for study by house members.

Mr. Reid said the committee had been told the number of landing barges, Algerine naval craft, minesweepers and other vessels built in Canada. Committee members had been allowed to ask questions freely.

He could not think data on naval ships, including their speed and armament, could properly be placed before the public accounts committee on the eve of an invasion.

"COMFORT" ENEMY

B. M. Hill (L.-Charlotte) said information given the committee, such as the number and location of cargo ships, would give aid and comfort to the enemy. The mover of the amendment should reconsider and withdraw it.

When the vote was taken on the Harris amendment, the vote was 118 to 50 against tabling the committee's evidence.

After the vote R. H. McGregor (P.C.-York East), speaking on the main motion for concurrence in the report, called for an explanation of differing costs in construction of merchant ships on the west coast and in St. Lawrence shipyards.

"The difference was $500,000 a ship and I defy the honorable member (Mr. Cleaver) to contradict that," said Mr. McGregor.

"I accept the defy," said Mr. Cleaver.

There were shouts from opposition members to "sit down," but Mr. Cleaver said he had been invited to answer. He said one firm built a ship at a cost of $1,399,000, well below the contract price, and had a substantial profit. Another had a cost of $1,969,000, above the contract price, and suffered a loss.

Mr. McGregor said he had asked Mr. Cleaver Monday whether it had been agreed by the British and Canadian governments that the price of 10,000-ton cargo boats on the Pacific coast should be $1,825,000 and on the St. Lawrence $1,760,000, and Mr. Cleaver had agreed.

ASKS ABOUT CONTRACT

"I would ask the honorable gentleman what he has to say about the contract that was let to a contractor in the province of Quebec for $60,000 more than the $1,825,000 and $125,000 more than the contracts were supposed to be let for on the St. Lawrence," Mr. McGregor continued.

A saving of $300,000 a boat had been claimed when the contracts were cancelled and a cost-plus basis of purchase was used. But the committee report said the price of boats was $2,046,000 on the St. Lawrence while the price of those same 10,000-ton cargo ships on the west coast was $1,422,000.

"That is a difference of $624,000," he continued. "If you allow the contractor $50,000 profit on the boat the price was $574,000 higher than it should have been; yet in spite of the fact that the contract was approximately $575,000 higher than it should have been, they saved $300,000 a boat."

OPPOSITION CHEERS

Opposition members laughed and cheered.

"I say that shipbuilding in most of the privately owned yards is a credit to this country," said Mr. McGregor, "and in any yard this government controls, well, I just can't find words to express it and I will just say it is bad."

It was not because of the Aluminum company that the government did not want to table evidence of the war expenditures committee. It was the boat-building business.

Munitions Minister Howe said the lowest-cost shipyard in Canada was a government-owned yard at Montreal. It was launching 10,000-ton ships at a lower cost than anywhere else.

"Just a year ago today," said Mr. Howe, "I was called to Washington to a meeting to discuss how to get more escort ships to beat the submarines in the North Atlantic.

"I came back determined to get more ships and not to be stopped by cost."

It was necessary to use second-rate facilities because there were not enough first-class facilities. As demand tapered off the use of high-cost facilities would be discontinued first.

BUILD SHIPS ANYWHERE

"But," he said, "as long as there is urgent need I am going to build ships anywhere I can build them."

The war expenditures committee's report on shipyards was six months old. He invited this year's committee to visit the high-cost yards. He said he was sure it would find an improvement.

The minister said he wondered sometimes what the function of the committee was. Its slated purpose was to effect economies. A branch of the department did the same thing the year round and several people were in jail as a result of its investigations.

The committee had helped the munitions department by keeping officials on their toes. In the case of aluminum, however, purchases at the expense of the Canadian treasury were small.

In 1941 the purchases by Canada resulted in a profit of 3.7 per cent to the aluminum company. Purchases in 1942 resulted in a loss. Those were the only facts relating to the Canadian treasury in the whole aluminum picture.

OWNERSHIP CONSIDERED

The question of government or private ownership was not related to expenditures although it was carefully considered at the start of development.

In the light of all the facts—that aluminum production required operations in British Guiana, Newfoundland, and Greenland as well as Canada; that the British government had already made large advances to the company for development in Canada—it was decided not to attempt government ownership.

In connection with tax concessions, the government had done no more than keep faith with the other governments which were purchasing aluminum, Mr. Howe said.

Neither Britain, United States nor Australia bought aluminum anywhere else at a lower price than in Canada. No other country bought aluminum for its airplanes as cheaply as Canada did.

"I ask why this committee should spend weeks of time inquiring into the cost of aluminum to this country when the facts were well-known to them," he said.

OTHERS SATISFIED

The other purchasing governments were satisfied with the price and there was no need for a Canadian committee to investigate their transactions.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D., Macleod), said the government should provide for another review of charges made against the aluminum interests by Mr. Coldwell. There had been no satisfactory refuting of the charges during the house debate.

Mr. Coldwell could say the government had not produced the evidence because it was afraid to do so, said Mr. Hansell. He would vote against concurrence as long as he did not have the evidence the expenditures committee might review the Coldwell charges again.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, said his party would have voted against concurrence in the report if a vote were taken.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

The motion then was withdrawn by Mr. Cleaver, and Prime Minister King moved for appointment of a war expenditures committee in 1944.

Mr. King said members' rights were not taken away by the committee. It gave members an additional right to inquire into war expenditures, besides the rights they already had.

Mr. King said that when a committee began an investigation the public got the idea something was wrong. Many plants were making munitions. The committee had power to investigate any one of them and have remedies applied if they were necessary.

But these concerns should not be put before the public to be investigated. They were entitled to the protection of the government.

Investigations by parliamentary committees attracted wide attention and the press would be filled with headlines. Such headlines would distract the people's attention from the main business of winning the war.

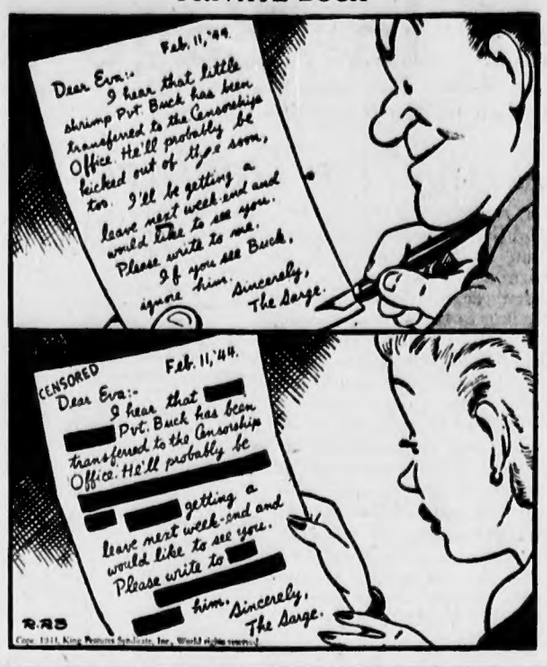

SAYS TIMES GRAVE

Mr. King said the times were grave—"much graver than members have yet begun to realize, and we are heading rapidly into a situation which will be the most desperate this world has known."

Mr. King said that for any "body of gentlemen to refuse to assist the government in every way they possibly can in this war effort, in effecting economies, or to ask the government to take a step which will confuse the public mind and divert it from the winning of the war, into an effort to win elections and make political capital. . . ."

Here the Prime Minister was interrupted by Mr. Graydon rising on question of privilege and asking him to sit down. The Prime Minister never did finish his statement before the House adjourned at 11:25 p.m. E.D.T.

Expect Invasion In South France

LONDON, Feb. 23. — (CP) — Evacuation of France's Mediterranean coast began yesterday, said a commentator on the German-controlled Paris radio, because the French government considers southern France will be the first region invaded by the Allies.

This statement by commentator Robert de Beauplan constituted a reminder that the time is not far off when weather will be suitable for invasion anywhere along France's coastline. De Beauplan said the blow might fall along a line from Nice on the Riviera to Toulon and Marseilles on the eastern end of the Gulf of Lions to Perpignan on the west.

The commentator, however, also warned that if the Allies invaded elsewhere than in the south, every region of the country must be ready for the sudden attack which would turn the area into a gigantic battlefield.

Moisture Needed By Farm Lands

CALGARY, Feb. 23.—(CP) — The driest fall and winter in the history of agriculture in this province leaves Alberta farmers faced with a serious situation for start of this year's crop unless heavy, wet snowfall and rains alter the picture before seeding time.

"The lack of snow cover this winter has aggravated the situation," said C. A. Weir, district superintendent of the plant production service, federal department of agriculture, yesterday. Due to lack of snow cover, evaporation of moisture from the soil had continued all winter.

Rains last fall were abnormally light and the soil has been robbed of moisture reserve by winter evaporation. A wet spring will still save the situation.

Bomber Crashes

MILLBROOK, N.J., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A four-engine army bomber crashed and exploded yesterday in an isolated, heavily wooded section of the Kittatinny mountains and state police said 11 bodies had been found in the burning wreckage.

District News in Brief

BREMNER.—The local C.G.I.T. group held a winter carnival at the Bremner rink Thursday night. The program included races. Refreshments were served.

A dance in aid of the local Red Cross branch was held in the Bremner hall Friday night.

ENDIANG. — The boys' hockey club entertained at a raffle and dance in the Community hall Friday night, and the total proceeds amounted to $85. The money will be used for club activities and improvements on the rink. Mrs. Hilda Tynne is a house-guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shaben. Mrs. M. Armstrong has returned from Hanna. Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Gerguson spent Friday at Stettler.

FERINTOSH.—The Ferintosh district Ministerial Union has just completed a week of evangelistic meetings at the Ferintosh Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. F. Schemke, the Rev. Ray Beck, the Rev. V. A. Lindgren, the Rev. A. C. Strom, and the Rev. Stanley Hanson conducted the meetings. Another series of gatherings is being planned.

The Central Valley Comfort Club held a tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Graff last week, and collected a total of $5.05. Mrs. Charles Nesbett was elected to the town council, replacing Robert Slinger who has moved to Edmonton. A. Norman was re-elected by acclamation for another term. Miss Phyllis Bottorff was tendered a birthday party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bottorff, last week.

MUNDARE.—Vegreville hockey team defeated Mundare by the score of 4-3 in a game played here. The game had to be stopped before the last period was complete because of the weather. Johnny Mitchell, former Vegreville hockey star, was the referee and only two penalties were imposed in spite of the fast pace at which it was played.

A total of $108 was raised for the Red Cross at a dance held in the National hall. Included in this amount was $5 donated by the National hall organization. The orchestra in attendance also donated their services for the Red Cross.

PERRYVALE.—The monthly dance here was successful, and a total of $25 was raised for local war charities. The Ladies' Welfare Workers are sponsoring a three-act play, entitled "A Ready-Made Family," which will be presented on March 16.

CLIVE.—First of a series of informative motion pictures sponsored by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board was shown in the Clive community hall. The farm home of Mrs. A. Estley was damaged by fire which broke out in the kitchen of the house. The fire was extinguished quickly by a "bucket brigade".

Lantern slides featuring missionary work in all parts of the world were shown in Clive United church. Group two of the Clive Ladies' Aid held a successful Valentine Tea in the church last week. The local Soldiers' Club has received letters of thanks for Christmas parcels from the following: Tpr. H. A. Webb, Tpr. L. Wagner, Cpl. L. O. Williams, Tpr. K. Eidt and Sigmn. H. Hudkins.

FAUST.—Miss Nellie Erickson was married at High Prairie to Nick Olson. A shower for the bride was given by Mrs. Alice Kenny. A group of badminton players visiteds Faust and many good games were played with the local badminton club members. Twenty-four members of the local club participated, and games were followed by refreshments, and a social hour at the home of Mrs. Petrie.

The annual meeting of the school district was well attended and Mr. Farnaugh was elected trustee. The school board reported that the new school building had been paid for, and a considerable balance was on hand.

The fishing season at Whitefish Lake has been completed. During the last six weeks many carloads of fish have been shipped from here to the United States.

Mrs. G. Gallante, well-known and highly respected member of this community died suddenly last week. She is survived by her husband and two sons. A funeral service was held Saturday.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

A GOOD basketball story going the rounds here these days illustrates the advantage to be gained sometimes by having on the roster, in addition to a few proficient hoopers, somebody quick on the draw when the occasion calls for a little fast thinking.

• It appears that through an oversight, no stop-watch was available for the time-keeper when two local Service cage squads lined up for a recent game. It was accordingly agreed that instead of the usual 10-minute actual playing time quarters, the teams would continue for an over-all total of 12 minutes in each period to cover minor delays.

Everything went along nicely for the first three quarters, but as the boys entered the final stretch with one of the clubs doing a bit of the old come-back, time gradually became more and more of the "essence of the contract."

And then with just three minutes of play remaining and one of the quintets a single point up, the stage was all set for "think specialist" to dramatically assume his role—and he did exactly that. Result—one time out, one minute gone. Second time out, two minutes gone. Third time out, three minutes gone. Game over!

HERE AND THERE

THE Engineers, who wound up the regular schedule in the city hoop circuit without a single setback are reported to be leaving within the next few days for Fairbanks where they will represent the U.S. Army here in an international athletic meet which starts Feb. 26.

Engineers and Quartermasters meet at Westglen on Friday in their final round-robin playoff fixture. Both lost to the Yanks in the post schedule series.

The Spiked Shoe Club is being revived at the University of Alberta, "Just to keep it going, until 'The Day' arrives," being the primary reason for its rebirth according to one of Varsity's cinder path enthusiasts.

H.M.C.S. Nonsuch juniors go into their second game of their best-of-five playoff series tonight with a one game edge over Canadian Athletic Club, having taken the opener on Monday 7-6. The game will of course be at 119 Street rink and it starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Golden Miller Was Offspring Of Gift Mare

LONDON, Feb. 23. — (CP) — A British army officer, leading a thoroughbred mare, called on an Irish farmer in County Meath just before the First Great War and asked the farmer to care for the animal while he went to war. The officer never came back.

But for that, Golden Miller perhaps the greatest steeplechaser of all time, would not have been born. Offspring of an obscure sire after the farmer kept the mare for cost, the "ugly duckling" later won a record number of five Cheltenham gold cups and a Grand National in dominating 'chasing for several years.

The great animal's history is told in "The Life of Golden Miller," a book just off the press and written by his trainer, Basil Briscoe.

Now 17, Golden Miller is spending the last few years of his life on a stud farm in Essex. He left the racing scene only five years ago.

Briscoe purchased Golden Miller, sight unseen, in March of 1930 for approximately $2,400 after a hunter-dealer called him "the best-looking three-year-old in Ireland."

Shortly afterwards, the Hon. Dorothy Paget, millionaire racehorse owner and breeder, purchased the Miller and his stable companion, Insurance, for nearly $60,000. The horse went on to win the gold cups and in 1934 achieved trainer Briscoe's life ambition by winning the Grand National.

In nine seasons, Golden Miller ran 55 times, including three "flat" races. He won 29 and placed in 13 others.

Average Per Game Is 27.26 Points

ORONO, Me., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Ernie Calverley of the Rhode Island State College's Rams hung up a United States collegiate basketball scoring record of 518 points for the season's total when he dropped in 45 points last night to give his team an easy 115-37 victory over the University of Maine.

With at least one more game to go, he has scored an average of 27.26 points a game.

With a medical discharge from the army, he has "to take it easy" during a good part of the games.

The previous American record was 515 points set a year ago by George Senesky of St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia.

St. Boniface Now In North Finals

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Paul Bedard scored four goals for St. Boniface Athletics as they defeated Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club 7-6 in a Manitoba junior semi-final game here last night. St. Boniface now moves into the north division finals against Winnipeg Esquires.

Hec Bourgeois with two, and Joe Bockstael with one, were the other St. Boniface scorers while Don Stay, with two, and Shorty Hamulka, Eddie Semner, Hank Bergner and Walter Malkiewitch, with one each, netted for C.U.A.C.

Bonnie Doon Will Hold Ice Carnival

The Bonnie Doon Community League is holding an ice carnival at the community rink on Friday evening starting at 8 p.m. There will be fancy and comic skating and races with prizes awarded the winners as well as a fancy skating exhibition by C. E. Ferris, old timer of the district. Crowning of the community queen by Mayor John Fry will also take place.

Jimmy Orlando Trying to Enlist

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Jimmy Orlando, former defenceman for Detroit Red Wings, Tuesday, said he was "trying" to enlist in the Canadian Army.

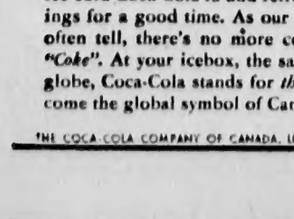

The ex-National Hockey League player has been living here with his parents pending an appeal from a four-year sentence for violating United States Selective Service Act.

Billy Rose Wins

LETHBRIDGE, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Playing in the Ellison's Flour Mill event at the fifth annual Lethbridge shirtsleeve bonspiel, Billie Rose's rink of Sedgewick last night defeated Haig 10-5. In the Gas Co. event Price defeated Boulter 9-8.

Currie Cartoons

Pte. Bob Carse — Currie's Dangerous Marksman —

—Canadian Army (M.D. 13) Cartoon.

High up on the list of leading marksmen of the Central Alberta Garrison Hockey League and one of the three leading scorers of the Currie club, Pte. Bob Carse, formerly of Edmonton, will see action Thursday night when the Curriemen journey to Red Deer to tangle with the A20 Wheelers. Direct from the ranks of Chicago Black Hawks the 24-year-old Edmontonian, who can play centre or left wing, came to Currie this season after many years of standout hockey. Starting out at Edmonton he played with E.A.C. midgets and juveniles, then graduated to that club's junior team that went to the Memorial Cup finals in 1938-39. His play that year was good enough to send him to Rhode Island Reds, and after half a season, to Chicago Black Hawks. Except for an odd spell with the Chihawks' farm club, the Kansas City Americans, he managed to stay with the Chicago club until joining the Army, and last year snared 33 points. This season, along with Max Bentley and Alex. Kaleta, he ranks in Currie's "Big Three" as far as scoring is concerned.

Two Goals Are "Gifts"

Doug Bentley Tallies Four As Hawks Trim Rangers 8-4

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Chicago Black Hawks, paced by Doug Bentley, staged a third-period scoring spree Tuesday night to whip the New York Rangers 8-4 and take an undisputed hold on fourth place in the National Hockey League race. It was the Rangers' 11th consecutive game without a victory.

For two periods the crowd of 10,201 was treated to a game marked by sloppy play and freak goals. Then, with freakish happenings still bobbing up, the Hawks rang up five goals in succession to clinch the decision.

Bentley scored the first three Chicago goals and added a fourth goal and an assist in the final period. One goal by each team was a clear gift from the defending side. Earl Seibert, Chicago defenceman, batted the puck into his own cage once while making a grab at the flying disc while McAuley and Bob Dill, between them, accounted for a Chicago tally when they bumped together at the goalmouth, stumbled and carried the puck into the net.

Two Players Disqualified In 1st Game

CONTINUING the strong checking that brought them the upset victory over Engineers, U.S. Army Yanks defeated Quartermasters 60-49 in the opening game at Westglen Tuesday night to emerge the only unbeaten team in the "A" section round-robin playoff series for the Edmonton Men's Basketball League title. A 49-36 win over Station Hospital in the afterpiece put the Engineers, who were led by John Gullekson with 30 points—a new individual scoring record—on even terms with the Quartermasters.

Joe Long was disqualified along with George Horowitz following a brief flareup in the third quarter of the feature, but he had counted 21 points to lead the high flying Yanks who now require only a triumph over Hospital in the second contest Friday night to win the title.

A few punches were thrown during the Long-Horowitz affair, but things were brought under control within a minute or so and play continued.

Long and Horowitz were both charged with a personal foul and a disqualifying one, allowing each side two free shots on the mixup.

The Yanks started rolling right from the opening whistle and outscored the Quartermasters, 16-9 in the first session and then went on to drop in 17 more points in the second while they held the losers to 13 to gain a 33-22 lead at the half way mark.

The winners continued at high speed in the third, and with Long hitting top form to drop in nine counters before he was put out, they built up a 50-35 margin which looked anything but good to the losers who were unable to display the power that they have shown in recent games.

The Quartermasters didn't lose confidence however, and went out in the last session to out-score the Yanks 16-10 with Artie Albert, usual high counter who was held pointless in the first three cantos by the stiff checking, and "Twisty" Ferrari coming through in fine style. But the six-point difference in the fourth frame wasn't enough to over-come the large lead held by the winners.

Following is the box score:

GULLEKSON COUNTS 30 FOR NEW RECORD

With John Gullekson setting a new individual scoring mark of 30 points, U.S. Engineers out-classed the U.S. Station Hospital team in the second fixture last night to win out 49-36 and stay in the running for the league honors. They have one win in two playoff starts, the same number as Quartermasters and must beat the latter in Friday night's opener to stand a chance of copping the title.

But any hopes either the Quartermasters or Engineers have of emerging as champs will be out if Hospital is unable to put the extra something on the ball in the afterpiece Friday and upset the Yanks.

The game wasn't nearly as full of action as the first and Engineers led all the way. The Hospital squad, playing without Warren Taulbee, their key player for part of the game, kept fighting hard and were always within striking distance.

The Engineers out-scored the losers 14-11 in a close first session and 12-9 in the second to earn a 26-20 lead at half time. The Hospital team added seven to the winner's six in the third, but the latter came back in the last with 17 points to gain their triumph.

Following is the box score:

Pee-Wee Hockey

Two playoff games in the E.A.C. Pee-Wee Hockey League will be played on Thursday. Krafts and Smithbilts clash at 119 Street rink at 5:30 p.m., while Sunlands and Leckies meet at 8 p.m. on the Scona Community Centre ice.

Both are the first of semi-final two-game series, total goals to count.

Large Fistic Program Planned

Army to Declare Fight Champs

CALGARY, Feb. 23.—Fighting men of the Canadian Army stationed in Alberta will soon embark on a large scale fistic program leading to the Canadian Army boxing championships, Lieut. J. A. McMullen, sports officer of M.D. 13, announced here today.

Designed to name men to advance along the trail to the Dominion-wide titles which will be decided by April 30, units in the province will soon decide their title-holders who will then enter inter-unit, area, inter-area, district and inter-district competitions with the winners going on to battle for the national championships.

Plans call for novice and open classes with seven weight classifications in each class, eliminating the 112-lb. weight. For the purpose of the tournament a novice soldier boxer is one who has never fought a bout in the ring before the public at any time whether as a civilian or in the service.

For the purpose of the tournament military centres and establishments have been divided into four areas as follows:

Arean one—Suffield, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge.

Area two—Currie Barracks, No. 13 District Depot, Headquarters of Military District No. 13, No. 13 Ordnance Depot Company, R.C.O.C. and all other units in the Calgary area.

Area three—Red Deer and Wetaskiwin Training Centres.

Area four—Camrose Training Centre, No. 3 Base Ordnance Depot, No. 13 Vocational Training School, Grande Prairie Training Centre and Buffalo Training Camp, Wainwright.

All unit champions must be declared by March 11 following which area champions will be determined at Suffield, No. 13 District Depot at Calgary, Wetaskiwin and Camrose by March 18. Champions of areas one and two will meet at Suffield and champions of areas three and four at Red Deer by March 25.

When the inter-area results are known the district championship bouts will be held at a place to be decided later.

Unit and area champions will be given suitable mementos under unit arrangement. All district champions will be awarded a medal by the Canadian Army.

Inter-district champions will receive a bar to the medal plus an additional memento.

Western and Eastern Canadian champions will receive a second bar to the medal plus a full boxing kit including a bathrobe with the Canadian Army emblem.

Winners of the Canadian Army championships will receive a third bar to the district medals and in addition will be presented with gold medals.

Hershey Bears Beat Pittsburgh

HERSHEY, Pa., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Hershey Bears took a stronger grip on first place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League by beating the Pittsburgh Hornets 6-3 before 2,500 fans here last night. It was Pittsburgh's final game of the season on Hershey ice.

Hershey goals were counted by Pat Patterson, (two), Peggy O'Neil, Hec Pozzo, Fred Hergert and Bulldog Drummond. Hornet scorers werr Ross Knipfel, Art Giroux and Bob Gracie.

"Why shouldn't I buy it? I've got the money!"

Sure you've got the money. So have lots of us. And yesterday it was all ours, to spend as we darned well pleased. But not today. Today it isn't ours alone.

"What do you mean, it isn't mine?"

It isn't yours to spend as you like. None of us can spend as we like today. Not if we want prices to stay down. There just aren't as many things to buy as there are dollars to spend. If we all start scrambling to buy everything in sight, prices can kite to hell-'n'-gone.

"You think I can really keep prices down?"

If you don't, who will? The government can't do it alone. Every time you refuse to buy something you don't need, every time you refuse to pay more than the ceiling price, every time you shun a black market, you're helping to keep prices down.

"But I thought the government put a ceiling on prices?"

You're right, a price ceiling for your protection. And it's up to you to pay no more than the ceiling price. If you do, you're party to a black market deal. And black markets not only boost prices — they cause shortages.

"Doesn't rationing take care of shortages?"

Your ration coupons will—if you use them wisely, Don't spend them unless you have to. Your ration book merely sets a limit on your purchases. Every coupon you don't use today means that much more for you — and everybody else — to share tomorrow.

"Then what do you want me to do with my money?"

Save it! Put it in the bank! Put it in life insurance! Pay off old debts and don't make new ones! Buy and hold Victory Bonds! Then your money can't force prices up. But it can speed winning of the war. It can build a prosperous nation for you, your children, and our soldiers, who deserve a stable Canada to come home to. Keep your dollars out of circulation and they'll keep prices down. The government is helping—with taxes.

"Now wait! How do taxes help keep prices down?"

We've got to pay for this war sooner or later. It's easier and cheaper to pay as we go. And it's better to pay more taxes NOW—while we've got the extra money to do it. Every dollar put into taxes means a dollar less to boost prices. So . . .

Use it up . . .
Wear it out . . .
Make it do . . .
Or do without!

Have a Coca-Cola=Here's to old times

...or welcoming home a sailor son

There is real welcome in a snack shared in the kitchen. With ice-cold Coca-Cola to add refreshment, you have all the makings for a good time. As our men in camp and overseas so often tell, there's no more cordial invitation than Have a "Coke". At your icebox, the same as in Canteens around the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the global symbol of Canadian hospitality.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke"

Maple Leafs and Canadians Take Lead in Midget Playoffs

MAPLE LEAFS won from South Side 3-2 on 96 Street rink and Canadians defeated E.A.C. also by 3-2 on 119 Street ice in the opening fixtures of the two-game total semi-finals in the City Midget Hockey League playoffs on Tuesday night.

Stan Patterson scored two of the Leaf goals and Collingwood netted the winner from Stewart in the final period. Harvey Silzer collected both of the South Side markers.

Both Maple Leafs and South Side scored in the first period. Patterson completed a three-way play with Barry Smith, but Smith secured the equalizer for South Siders. Leafs however went ahead in the middle frame with Patterson, Barry and Smith combining again.

Silzer's second goal on a pass from Frank Crozier tied up the count early in the third period, but Collingwood later beat the South Side net minder with the help of Stewart.

Both goalies were in great form.

South Side: Kilburn, Anderson, Howey, Silzer, Ego, McDonald, Crozier, Greenwood, Glen, Johannson, Parker, Carlson.

Referee: Ivan Krook.

THIRD PERIOD GOAL GIVES CANUCKS EDGE

The Canadians-E.A.C. game at 119 street was also deadlocked twice, Clayton Richman eventually firing the goal which gave the Canadians a 3-2 decision after taking a pass from Bob Fleming.

Harry Jeske and Dave Butler were the E.A.C. marksmen, while Bob Emberg and Bob Fleming gathered in the first two for Canadians.

E.A.Cees went into the lead in the opening canto on Jeske's goal from Slattery and Emberg and Fleming combined for the tying counter half-way through the second period. This latter goal was protested by the E.A.C. goalie.

Butler's marker scored on Harvey's pass gave the young Clubmen the advantage in the final heat, but Fleming knotted the score at 2-2 and later passed to Richman for the clincher.

Good Progress Is Being Made Red Deer 'Spiel

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Feb. 23.—The sixteens were filled in the Grand Challenge and some progress made in the other primary, the hotelkeepers, by the close of play on Tuesday, first day of the Red Deer Curling Club's thirty-fourth annual bonspiel. The weather fortunately turned somewhat colder and was just right to give good ice all day. With seven sheets in play six draws were run off and the spiel made satisfactory progress.

The entry of 45 rinks, twenty-nine from out-of-town points with 16 from the Red Deer club, is one of the largest in the history of Red Deer bonspiels.

There was good curling on Tuesday and at least one of the games had to go an extra end. Ten-end games are being played because of the large entry.

Six draws were scheduled for Wednesday.

Joe Carveth Moves Up

Cain Now Has 65 Points In Race for Scoring Title

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Herbie Cain of Boston Bruins increased his lead atop the National Hockey League official scoring race during the last week, moving three points up on Lorne Carr of Toronto in a week that was generally dull as far as the leaders were concerned.

The official figures released today gave Cain 31 goals and 34 assists for a 65-point total, three ahead of his mark of a week ago, and three ahead of the present total of Carr, who had 60 points last week.

Doug Bentley of Chicago remains in third place with 59 points while Bill Mosienko also of the Black Hawks is in fourth, two points behind. Joe Carveth of Detroit is next with 54 followed closely by team-mate Carl Liscombe and Elmer Lach of Canadiens who have 53 each.

Says Attendance To Hit New High

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A new National Hockey League attendance record is in the making this season, Bill Tobin, president of Chicago Black Hawks, said Tuesday.

"We've drawn 263,606 fans in Chicago Stadium for our 19 home games," Tobin beamed, "and that's an average of 13,874 a game. If we can keep that average through our remaining six home games, the Hawks will have drawn 350,000 spectators—a new high in hockey history. The way it looks now, the total attendance in the league will be a new record."

Stadium Flyers Take Opener in Bantam Play-Off

The Stadium Flyers grabbed a one-game lead in a best of three series for the championship of the Canadian Athletic Club Bantam Hockey League when they trounced the West End 9-2 at the Stadium rink last night.

The Flyers grabbed a four goal lead in the opening frame. Eddie Wiederspiel counted the first on a play with Stan Cudmore and this was closely followed by an unassisted effort by Peter Carp. Donald Haley accounted for the next marker on a play with Carp and Jack Grace, and in the dying minutes of the frame, Donald Flach registered on a pass from Ron Ferguson.

The Stadium kids added three more in the jam session. Elmer Erwin completed Flach's pass for the initial counter and Carp on a fine solo effort flashed the red light and this was closely followed by Stan Cudmore's tally on a play with Ben Pasukonis. Buddy Loftus gave the West Enders some hope in the dying minutes of the period when he converted Eddie Townsend's goal mouth pass.

Carp added two more for the winners in the final frame and both goals were unassisted. Townsend and oftus combined for the loser's second goal with Townsend doing the honors.

In last night's contest, the West Enders only had 8 men in uniform and this lack of manpower handicapped them no little against the fast stepping Flyers.

LINEUPS

Stadium Flyers: Randolph, Diakiw, Behms, Wiederspiel, Cudmore, Melnychuck, Haley, Carp, Grace, Ferguson, Flach, Erwin, Lawrence, Barabash, Pasukonis.

Reply to Throne Speech Is Adopted by Legislature At Long Night Session

In a marathon sitting that continued until 19 minutes past 12 o'clock Wednesday morning, the Alberta Legislature adopted its reply to the Speech from the Throne, by a recorded vote of 30 to 13.

The Reply, which was moved by David A. Ure, Social Credit M.L.A. for Red Deer in his maiden speech in the House, was debated for eight days in the Legislature, by 30 out of 56 members. Tuesday discussion in the debate started late at the afternoon sitting, was adjourned until a night sitting, and concluded by Mr. Ure at 12:14 a.m.

Conclusion of the Throne Speech discussion allows introduction of the budget for the 1944-45 fiscal year, which will be done by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, at Thursday's sitting of the House. No sitting is to be held Wednesday, which is Ash Wednesday.

AMENDMENT REJECTED

Dying hours of the debate saw an Independent M.L.A.'s amendment to the Throne Speech reply receive rejection by a recorded vote of 33 to 14 votes. This amendment was moved by Percy McKelvey, M.L.A. for Ponoka, and seconded by F. D. Jackson, Independent M.L.A. for Cypress.

Mr. McKelvey was first speaker in the debate Tuesday. He suggested that the government should help in the purchase of calves for junior calf clubs, by way of a guarantee. It was unfair to businessmen to pledge $7,000 in this regard, as has had to be done, he noted.

With reference to the proposed free maternity legislation he suggested that the aid to be supplied should be confined to those who actually need it.

Regarding the proposed department of public welfare, Mr. McKelvey suggested that the soldiers' advisory board be composed of men who would give encouragement and sympathetic consideration to men who appeared before it for help.

TAKES ISSUE ON ROADS

He took issue with the government over the method adopted to pay for road construction, saying he had complained many times in the past regarding market and secondary highways. Miserable pittances were given to municipalities in road grants, he charged, compared to what the government takes out of a municipality in the form of gasoline and automobile license taxes.

Mr. McKelvey charged that Premier Ernest Manning's consol bond suggestion made earlier in the debate was a "red herring." He said the only people that could be hurt by such a plan would be those who turn in their present bonds for consols, and that the banks and mortgage companies would never do this.

The Ponoka M.L.A. then moved his amendment to the Reply to the Speech From the Throne.

TEXT OF AMENDMENT

Its text follows:

That the following words be added to the address to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta:

"But we regret that there is no indication in Your Honor's speech that your government:

(a) Realizes that to permit of a maximum use and development of the vast natural resources of the Province of Alberta in the post-war era, and to encourage the influx of capital necessary to effect such development, it is absolutely essential to take steps to re-establish confidence in the ability and willingness of the province to meet its obligations.

(b) Intends to abandon its unsound theories with respect to the national monetary system, the expounding of such unsound theories being of definite detriment to the present and post-war development of our province.

(c) Intends to take advantage during the present years of buoyant government revenues and substantial operating surpluses to place the financial operations of the province on a sound foundation so that the province will be in a position to enter the post-war era prepared for any financial emergencies.

(d) Intends to make further use of the present operating surpluses to establish a really substantial fund for the purpose of financing post-war developments.

(e) Has taken or will adopt effective measures to ensure as far as possible that export markets now open to our agricultural industry will remain available after the cessation of hostilities, and that other export markets will be opened and developed.

(f) Has taken any practical steps to explore the many possible industrial uses of our farm products and by-products or to give any leadership in the establishment of research laboratories to assist in such exploratory work.

All of these being a necessary prelude to the successful and beneficial operation of our provincial economy after the war in the interests of our citizens and particularly of these citizens who will be seeking a successful re-entry into civilian life after a prolonged and heroic participation in the nation's war services.

The amendment was lost on a voice vote, and Independent M.L.A.'s immediately called for a division.

COUNT ON VOTING

On a count of members, 14 voted for the amendment, and 33 against. The voting ran strictly according to party lines, all the Independents in the House voting "for," and all the Social Credit M.L.A.'s against, with Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F., M.L.A. for Edmonton, and C. A. Reynolds, Independent Social Credit M.L.A. for Stettler, also voting against.

Speaking in the Tuesday night sitting, William Masson, Social Credit M.L.A. for Wainwright, praised the government announcement that a new department of public welfare is to be established in the government.

Mr. Masson urged the need of the Dominion government putting floor prices under all farm products, saying if this was done, and experienced returned men were placed on the land under a rehabilitation plan, they would make good.

The member suggested sending a petition from the agricultural committee of the House to the Dominion, urging the establishment of such a price floor, saying that in the past, the farmer has been the forgotten man. He suggested a second petition, also to the Dominion, urging that soldier settlers from the last war be given titles to their land, without further premiums being required.

The Wainwright member also said he would like to see free hospitalization and medical care for old age pensioners, and declared that this government has done more for health than any in the Dominion. He declared that while the education standard is high, the standard of health services is quite a bit lower.

SOME "CORRIGANS"

C. A. Reynolds, Independent Social Credit M.L.A. for Stettler, said he felt there were a number of "wrong way Corrigans" in the legislature, who discussed matters that were outside of the province's jurisdiction.

The Stettler member said he hoped that district agriculturist services would be increased, and suggested the establishment of demonstration farms by the province.

Regarding taxes, Mr. Reynolds said he felt the property taxation system was entirely wrong, and that the most fair and effcient system of taxation was the income tax.

He stated that though a Social Credit government had been in office for nine years, nothing had been done on the property taxation question, except that the social service tax has been raised by 50 per cent. He said he did not question the principle of the large school unit, but noted one result had been higher land taxes.

DISCUSSES BACON CONTRACT

C. I. Sayers, Social Credit M.L.A. for Camrose, was the next speaker, and he discussed the Canadian bacon contracts with Britain. So many conflicting orders had been issued on this matter by the government, the member said, the farmers are now in a very unsettled state over the whole situation, and do not take the assurances of the Dominion department of agriculture any longer.

He told the house that one effect of the present bonus system on agricultural products was to educate the people to low prices of farm produce.

He referred to the Alberta Farmers' Union, saying it was at present the largest farm organization in the province, and that it has called for parity, not charity, for the farmer.

On plans for electrification of farm homes, the Camrose member said a number of farm homes, before this was done would have to be torn down and remodelled. "The first thing to do is make it possible for the farmers to get decent homes," he said.

LOSSES FROM BEARS

E. O. Duke, Social Credit M.L.A. for Pincher Creek-Crows Nest, told the House of depredations of bears on farms in his constituency. He told of one man who had lost 62 head of cattle, and others who had lost whole flocks of poultry. Farmers and ranchers could not obtain ammunition to drive off the bears. They had the necessary permits, but still could not obtain any ammunition.

"The Dominion should release enough ammunition so that each farmer will have enough to protect his stock and poultry," said Mr. Duke.

Speaking of the farm machinery problem the member said he often wondered whether it would pay the government to set up a farm machinery plant of its own. The House was told that prices of farm machinery had doubled and trebled in some instances, and that this monopoly should be broken.

Mr. Duke also urged the establishment of floor prices on farm products, and said they should continue for five years after the war.

Regarding the mining industry, Mr. Duke said the largest cause of discontent amongst miners was the income tax imposed on gross earnings. He told of one miner, a single man, who had earned $104 in two weeks, and had $54 left after 11 deductions had been taken out of his pay.

FINAL SPEAKER

Last speaker before the debate was closed by David Ure, Social Credit M.L.A. for Red Deer, Fred Anderson, Social Credit M.L.A. for Calgary, expressed surprise and regret in his address "that no mention was made in the Speech from the Throne of what is, to my mind, the most important matter for our consideration today—the refunding of our provincial debt."

Regarding post-war reconstruction, Mr. Anderson said: "Post-war reconstruction will entail the expenditure of many millions of money, and under the present financial system, it will be necessary for the provinces and Dominion to meet and allot huge sums of money to enable the provinces to properly finance the projects that will be necessary to give employment to our people.

Making a reference to the statement by Premier Manning that the possibility of an issue of consol bonds was under consideration, Mr. Anderson said that consols can only be successfully issued where the people have complete faith in the integrity of the party issuing them. "It is surely self-evident that until we have brought about a refunding of our debt, the necessary faith cannot exist," he declared.

SHOULD BE REFUNDED

"I am convinced that our debt can and should be refunded at an equitable rate" the Calgary member continued. He urged House members to remember that when they hear references to provinces obtaining money at low interest rates, these rates apply only on short term loans.

Stating that 10 years ago he had started to study the philosophy of Social Credit, Mr. Anderson stated that "the more I study it, the more I am convinced that it contains the solution of our economic troubles."

"But, Mr. Speaker, I can find nothing in the philosophy of Social Credit that would justify us in not refunding our debt and restoring our credit, now that we can afford to do so. Rather do I find a growing belief in Social Credit principles being held back by our present debt situation."

Labor Urges Compensation Act Changes

Delegates to the 24th convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor, while commending the provincial government on better conditions for workers under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and also the executive of the federation for obtaining these conditions, requested labor's governing body to seek other amendments to the act at the present session of the legislature.

They asked for amendments that would give 100 per cent coverage from the first day of lay-off, due to accident or occupational disease; coverage for all occupational diseases, and an increase in the number of inspectors employed in safety and first aid inspection work.

FIREMEN'S REQUEST

An amendment proposed by Local 209, International Association of Fire-Fighters, Edmonton, asks provision of compensation in the case of fire-fighters suffering from heart trouble and pneumonia, and also that these diseases be classified as occupational diseases.

A resolution urging the convention to go on record requesting closer co-operation on the part of the commissioners of the Workmen's Compensation Board with industrial workers was turned down by the convention.

Carl E. Berg, and Alfred Farmilo told delegates that many concessions had been made to labor by the board, and considerable improvement in the board's operations had resulted from representations made by labor.

That the board's operations were cordial with labor was evidenced from the fact that only three resolutions have come before the convention, while previously more than 40 was the general rule, Mr. Berg stated.

The convention recommended also that an amendment be sought to abolish the limit of $2,000 upon which the present compensation is paid.

Asserts Churchill 'Charlie McCarthy' For Joseph Stalin

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill's long address to the House of Commons yesterday opened a two-day debate on foreign policy.

Shortly after the prime minister made his statement, which included a reference to the Russian-Polish relations, John McGovern of the Independent Labor party asserted that Mr. Churchill "now is acting as Stalin's 'Charlie McCarthy' . . . the villain stands unmasked today in having proclaimed that the Atlantic Charter is only a sham in order to get sympathy at a dangerous time for this country."

Cost of Highways Given by Fallow

The sum of $21,891,013 was spent in the last eight years in Alberta on construction and maintenance of ferries, bridges, district highways and local roads, and on main and secondary highways, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said in the Legislature Tuesday.

Mr. Fallow was replying to questions asked by E. E. Roper, C.C.F. M.L.A. for Edmonton, and presented figures covering the interval between March 1, 1936, to Jan. 31, 1944.

In answer to a second question asked by Mr. Roper, the public works minister said that $15,077,636 had been spent on main highways, $3,681,950 on district highways and local roads, and $3,115,409 on the highway from Edmonton to the United States border. These figures include cash expenditures but not balanced figures from April 1, 1943, to Jan. 31, 1944, Mr. Fallow pointed out.

Debt to China Guest Speaker Tells Gyro Club

Next to Rome and Greece, China has made a greater contribution to civilization than any other country, Rev. H. O. T. Burkwall, district secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, said Tuesday.

Speaking before the regular Tuesday noon meeting of the Gyro Club at the Macdonald on "Our Debt to China," Mr. Burkwall outlined the various contributions China has made to western civilization.

The cross-bow, the stirrup, gunpowder and the compass—were adopted from the Chinese and not only influenced the development and growth of Europe but changed entire systems of government, he said.

DISCOVERY OF SILK

To China we owe the discovery and development of silk, the production of paper and print and chinaware.

Before the introduction of paper from China, Mr. Burkwall continued, it took the skins of 300 sheep to print one volume of the Gutenberg Bible and the mortality rate in Europe dropped tremendously after the introduction of chinaware and the necessity of washing the plates with hot water to get them clean.

Our debt to China is great, Mr. Burkwall said, not only for the past contributions but for the place she has taken in the present world conflict.

He urged a "better understanding" of our ally and her people and predicted that in the post-war world China will really begin to develop as a nation.

"She hasn't even scratched the surface of her tremendous potentialities," he said.

7,000 in Alberta Receiving Relief

An average of some 7,000 persons a month received provincial relief in Alberta, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and public welfare, replied in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon, in answer to questions asked by E. E. Roper, C.C.F., M.L.A., for Edmonton. The number was subject to daily variation, the minister said.

A second question by Mr. Roper asked, "What is the average amount paid to persons now receiving provincial relief?"

Dr. Cross answered: "The amount varies from $85 a month down to $5 a month, depending on earnings and individual need."

Total of $1,883,462 Is Saved Albertans on Insurance

Operations Are Reviewed By Provincial Secretary In Throne Speech Debate

A total of $1,883,462 has been saved citizens of Alberta in insurance alone since the present government took office, Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary, declared in the Legislature Tuesday when he spoke in the debate on the Speech from the Throne.

The minister was discussing insurance figures as revealed by operations of the Alberta government insurance office, which is under his direction.

Some of the savings the minister said had been effected were: $120,414 in three years, saved in 1936 when the government insured all its buildings with one company; a further saving of $5,302 when that contract expired, and the government insurance office took over this insurance; a further saving of $5,000 when this was renewed in 1943, or a total of $376,130 on government property alone.

PREMIUMS DOWN

Then by 1942, premiums collected by insurance companies in Alberta exclusive of the government insurance office, had dropped by $1,110,647 as compared to 1940 figures. In the same years 1940 to 1942, the government insurance office had collected net premiums of $115,097, said Mr. Hooke.

Insurance rates have been reduced by all insurers since 1939 anywhere from 25 per cent. to 45 per cent., said the minister. Estimated on a basis of 35 per cent. reduction, and on a basis of premiums written in 1940, this gives a saving to the people of $1,435,336, as borne by the 1942 reduction in premium.

To this must be added the saving effected on government property of over $370,000, together with that saved policyholders who have insured with the Alberta government insurance office.

FURTHER SAVING

On the assumption that they too would have paid 35 per cent more for their insurance had they insured with line companies, a further saving of $40,283 is given to the people of the province in three years, 1940 to 1942 inclusive, the minister went on. According to the auditors' statement for 1943, the government insurance office had premiums totalling $108,121, so it can be assumed that at least another $37,842 was made that year.

This gives the figure of $1,883,462 saved the people since the government came into power, said Mr. Hooke.

Referring to the fire insurance branch, the minister said that on Sept. 1, 1939, the branch started very modestly, and in debt to the general revenue fund for $10,000. Last year, the branch wrote a total of $22,871,847 of insurance, and since operations were commenced four years ago, $55,705,932 has been written.

"While it is not possible to tell yet where we stand with other companies in the field of fire insurance written, we can safely say that this year will put us close to the top, if not first," the House was told.

RESERVE OF $137,574

The branch has built up a reserve of $137,574, of which $85,000 is in Victory Bonds, and as this proceeds, premiums will be reduced always, in accordance with actuarial soundness, Mr. Hooke went on.

He said: "I maintain that this is a splendid example of state enterprise, as opposed to state monopoly, for the following reasons: The other companies were not expropriated; the people had their

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the provincial government's plan for a graduated reduction in automobile license fees on cars made prior to 1934?

THE ANSWERS

CHARLES MINBURN, salesman: I think it is a good idea. It is furthering an arrangement made some time ago. I believe that heretofore a reduction was allowed on cars made before 1929.

THOMAS FREEMAN, traveller: This move will benefit about one-half of the license-holders in the province. Any move that will benefit that many motorists is to be commended.

HARRY THORNTON, truck-driver: While there may be some difference of opinion as to the method of bringing about an easement of the burden on motorists, I think the government is to be commended for its action in easing the burden to the extent it has.

The Canadian Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, (Alberta Farmer-Labor) organization, will present a complete slate of candidates in the next general provincial election, for the Edmonton multiple constituency. At a nominating convention held in the I.O.O.F. hall Tuesday night the five shown above were chosen as candidates. With the exception of James C. Enright, all of the party's standard-bearers are well-known in Edmonton political circles. Mr. Roper is provincial leader of the C.C.F. Party and a sitting member in the provincial legislature. Mr. Enright has heretofore been known for his athletic activities.

C.C.F. Selects 5 Candidates For City Seats

Highlighted by an acclamation for Elmer E. Roper, M.L.A., provincial leader of the party, the Edmonton Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (Alberta Farmer-Labor) organization, nominated five candidates to contest the Edmonton multiple-seat constituency in the next provincial general election at a nominating convention in the I.O.O.F. Hall Tuesday night.

Confident that present trends have designated the C.C.F. as the party "to beat" in both Dominion and provincial fields in the next general elections, according to the views of speakers, the meeting decided overwhelmingly in favor of contesting every seat in the Edmonton constituency.

The five candidates chosen are as follows:

Elmer E. Roper, M.L.A., J. H. Dowler, James C. Enright, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth and Clifford C. Lee.

The surprise selection of the meeting was Mr. Enright. One of Canada's standout athletes, starring in rugby football and baseball a few years ago, he has also been prominent in affairs of the Edmonton Knights of Columbus Club for many years.

He has never been openly identified with any politcal party or group previous to his nomination at Tuesday's meeting.

OTHERS ACTIVE

All of the other candidates chosen have taken an active part in C.C.F. political affairs for several years and have all been candidates for civic offices in past elections.

Clifford Lee is provincial treasurer of the C.C.F.

He has been prominent in affairs of the C.C.F. for many years in this province.

Mrs. F. C. Butterworth is a former president of the Women's University Club and was an unsuccessful candidate for a seat on the Edmonton school board at the last civic election.

A railway employee, J. H. Dowler was also an unsuccessful candidate in the last civic election.

There were nine candidates nominated and balloting was spirited from a well attended meeting, for all except one of the aspirants. That was Mr. Roper, who was enthusiastically endorsed by a unanimous standing vote.

The big fight is just beginning, Mr. Roper said in a brief address at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Roper told the meeting that "We of the C.C.F. have a basic philosophy for the nation and the province that the people should own and control the means by which they live and if we stick to that philosophy we just can't go wrong."

ELECTION SPEECH

He added that the Dominion parliament speech from the throne was an election speech and all speeches by government members in the provincial house so far have been election speeches.

All other parties are directing their criticism against the C.C.F. and drawing the issue clearly. The C.C.F. is the party to beat.

W. H. Miller, president of the Edmonton C.C.F. clubs, was in the chair.

C.C.F. Will Choose City Candidates

Nominating convention to choose a C.C.F. candidate to contest West Edmonton Dominion constituency in the next election, will be held in the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, on Tuesday of next week, starting at 8 p.m.

Convention to choose a candidate for East Edmonton will be held in the Alberta Avenue Community League hall on Tuesday, March 7, also starting at 8 p.m.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

A truck, owned by Fred Ottewell, Clover Bar, stolen in the city about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, was recovered about four hours later in the South Side park, according to police.

There will be a public meeting of the Alberta Vegetable Growers' Association March 1 at 2 p.m., at the Market building to discuss problems of interest to all vegetable growers.

Fire, believed to have started from an overheated furnace, did slight damage to an unoccupied wartime house at 88 street and 113 avenue at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday. Halls 2 and 5 responded, laying one line of hose.

A meeting of the Garneau Home and School Association, Division 1, will be held in Room 3 at Garneau school, Thursday at 4:15 p.m. Dr. Margaret Collins will speak on "The Health of the Child."

Warnings by police concerning the securing of business and other premises continue to go unheeded, according to reports received Wednesday. Patrol officers discovered 10 buildings insecure in downtown Edmonton, alone, Tuesday night.

A total of 60 women donated blood at the Edmonton Red Cross blood bank, Tuesday, including 25 members of the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company, 10 civil service employees, girls from the mobilization board and the R.C.M.P. office. On Monday, 70 men were blood donors, including 20 R.C.N.V.R. personnel from St. Joseph's College, five R.C.M.P., several airmen from No. 3 "M" Depot and No. 4 I.T.S. and "old soldiers" of the First Great War.

Cosmopolitan member John G. Norrington was guest speaker at the regular Tuesday meeting of the Cosmopolitan club at the Corona. Mr. Norrington spoke about the history and manufacture of cigarettes and presented a technicolor film on Canadian tobacco production and manufacture. Announcement was made of the change in meeting time. Beginning February 28, the Cosmopolitan club will meet Mondays at 12:15 p.m. at the Corona.

No Official Word On Govt. House

No official word has been received in Edmonton by the government regarding the province's offer to Ottawa concerning the use of Government House as a convalescent home for returned soldiers, it was learned here late Tuesday night.

The Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said he had received no official word on the matter, although he was aware a favorable recommendation had been made to the Dominion capital, after air force officers had inspected the buildings.

It was understood Tuesday that the Dominion might put at least two more buildings on the grounds, and make large expenditures for recreational facilities on the property. The Dominion's tenure might last "for the duration" and six months after, it was suggested. No charge was to be made by the province for the use of the property.

E coupons in ration book No. 3, now being used for tea and coffee, must not be detached from the ration books of children under 12 years of age. Ration officials at the Wartime Prices and Trade Board state that when old ration books are presented at the disrtibution centre in the usual way to obtain new ration books 4, during the latter part of March, the books of children under 12 years old will be examined to see that E coupons for tea and coffee are intact. Although this feature has been pointed out, the ration office has been notified that in some instances children's ration books are being used to obtain tea and coffee with E coupons. Officials reiterate that this is not permissible.

Stettler Member Plans to Retire

When C. A. Reynolds, Independent Social Credit M.L.A. for Stettler, announced in the legislature Tuesday evening that he would not be a candidate for re-election in the next provincial election campaign, he brought to three the number of M.L.A.'s who have announced their intention of retiring from political life.

Other members who have announced they are not going to seek re-election are Dr. L. J. O'Brien, Independent M.L.A. for Grande Prairie, and Dr. P. M. Campbell, Independent M.L.A. for Lethbridge.

Mr. Reynolds, who was elected to the legislative assembly in 1940 as Social Credit M.L.A. for Stettler, broke with the government in 1942, and crossed the floor of the house. He sat for the first time as an Independent Social Credit member at the 1943 session.

Athabasca Man, Injured at Mill, Dies of Hurts

Joseph Hnatyshyn, 20-year-old Athabasca resident, rushed from a saw-mill about 40 miles northeast of his home to Athabasca hospital, late Monday, died shortly after being admitted.

He suffered the loss of his right leg and right arm in a mill accident, according to R.C.M.P.

Hnatyshyn, an employee of the mill, was walking past the circular saw about 5 p.m., Monday, and it was believed that he contacted the carriage lever.

As the carriage moved ahead it took the young man with it, thrusting him into the whirling saw teeth.

His right leg was severed just below the hip, while the right arm was cut off above the elbow.

Dr. E. K. Wright, coroner, of Wetaskiwin, was notified, and immediately conducted an inquiry. It has not been decided whether an inquest will be held, police stated.

Hnatyshyn was said to have been born in Poland in 1924, and was five years old when he accompanied his parents to Canada. His father, resident of Athabasca, was naturalized in 1935.

McCoy Health Service

Because of the expense and care required for its production, butter has usually been a costly article and human beings have striven for many years to discover a good substitute.

At the present time there are a number of butter substitutes which are available, and which are sold under the terms "oleomargarine" and "margarine." Due to economic stress, many families have switched from the use of butter to the use of one of these popular butter substitutes. Just the other day one of my patients was telling me that her family has started to use oleomargarine and have found it very satisfactory. She had not tried a butter substitute of this sort for the past 15 years and stated that in her opinion there has been a great improvement in the product and that the taste is much more agreeable than she remembered it.

Dietitians have been aware that butter substitutes are cheaper than butter, but have felt that the vitamin A content of the butter made it nutritionally superior to oleomargarines. The latter objection has been removed since they are now fortified with the vitamin.

The usual butter substitutes are made from a large variety. The "oleo-" part of the word "oleomargarine" refers to "oleo oil." This is a yellow oil of a buttery consistency, which comes from certain animal fats. It is expressed, for example, from a high grade of beef tallow, with the greater part of the solid fat being left behind. This oleo oil is used in manufacturing oleomargarine.

In the ordinary type of oleomargarine I understand that these animal fats are mixed with vegetable fats.

The nut margarines are mixtures of vegetable oils, with cocoanut oil being used as a base.

Generally speaking, the butter substitutes offer the same fuel value as butter, and are easily digested by the body.

Usually these products are sold uncolored, and the coloring material is afterward mixed in by the housewife. Such products are just as wholesome when left white, but the coloring makes them more pleasing to the eye.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

THESE WOMEN!

"I never thought it would come to the point where WOMEN would stare at my legs! This is my last pair of nylons!"

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

In Spite of Loud Talk, Most Marriages Success

According to Statistics, Only One in Six End in Divorce Courts, Indicating Loneliness of Single Life Is Less Desirable

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think there has ever been a really happy marriage? I have never known one. My mother has been married twice and both of her marriages were failures. My father is the best man who ever lived and does everything he can to please my mother, but she finds fault with him and nags him all the time, and I know he is miserable.

Every day that I live I have a greater dread of marriage, and I have fully made up my mind to fit myself to be self-supporting and stay single so that I can live in peace. I am a girl of 17. Don't you think I am wise not to run the risk of letting some man ruin my life?

PUZZLED GIRL.

ANSWER: Of course, there are not so many happy marriages as there should be, but that does not mean that every wedding ends in disaster. Perhaps not many marriages are the Heavon on earth that starry-eyed brides and bridegrooms expect to enjoy when they enter the holy estate; but the mere fact that only one marriage in six ends in divorce is proof that it is not a total failure and that the great majority of husbands and wives find marriage endurable, even if it is not particularly blissful.

To say that you will not marry because you have seen so many unhappy marriages is as foolish as to say that you will never eat a piece of luscious pie because pie gives someone you know indigestion, or that you will never be a teacher, or a stenographer, or a saleswoman because so many of your friends have failed in these jobs. There are no fool-prove moves in life, and whether we succeed or come croppers in our undertakings depends upon how much of our hearts and our brains and our backs we put into them.

Admittedly marriage is a risky business because it is utterly impossible to tell beforehand what sort of a husband or wife any man or woman will make. The most impassioned lover may turn into the dumbest of husbands. The most generous sweetheart may develop into a tightwad whose wife has to chloroform him to get a new hat out of him. The girl who was so mild and amiable that butter wouldn't melt in her mouth may become a shrew and a nagger as soon as she gets her man. The domestic maiden may come out of the kitchen on her wedding day and never go back into it again.

But, on the other hand, all life is a gamble. There are no sure things, and it is literally true that you can lose out just as completely by trying to play too safe as you can by being too reckless. Nothing venture, nothing have. And if you refuse to marry because you are afraid to take a chance, you are doomed to loneliness and lovelessness and to missing the consolation prize that you might get in even an unhappy marriage in your children.

Futhermore, this is to be said—that no outsider can tell whether a marriage is a success or a failure because so many husbands and wives have such queer standards of domestic felicity. It is no sign, for instance, that a husband and wife do not love each other because they fight continually. They may scrap for the pure love of a shindig. And we know men who are devoted to wives who boss the life out of them, and wives who think it a privilege to work and support the lazy loafers to whom they are married.

LONESOME

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a lonesome, heartbroken girl of 18, with a terrible problem that is ruining my sweet young life. It is this: My love is in the army and to make matters worse he is over a thousand miles away. He thinks that since he is having to endure the hardships and privations of army life that I should give up my job and follow him wherever his soldierly duties may lead him.

Now, being an ambitious young business woman, I would not be content to lead such a meager life, for my enamoured has to date reached only the rank of a private and, while this is an honorable rank in the army, it is not very remunerative. He maintains that life is not worth living under the present conditions, and I am frightened with the spectre of his committing suicide or deserting.

I am madly in love with him, but I feel that I could not be happy without the things to which every young bride is entitled. So what do you advise me to do?

HEARTBROKEN GIRL.

Answer: I advise you to stick to your job and wait for your love to come back to you, instead of going madly chasing around the country after him. That is best for you and best for him, for about the time that you would catch up with him he would be sent overseas and then you would be left lamenting, without a job or a husband to comfort you.

Girls who are rushing into marriages with soldiers or sailors, for which neither one of them are ready, will not look beyond the romance and excitment of a furlough wedding and see how much it complicates their situation. For a husband is a husband, whether he is near or far, and no married woman can do, without criticism, the things that a single girl is free to do.

Being married doesn't automatically turn an 18-year-old girl into a sedate and settled woman. She is still a girl whose feet ache to dance, who wants to go places and do things and have fun and run with the crowd as she has been accustomed to doing. She isn't satisfied to sit at home evenings with Mama and Papa and get the diversion she desires in thinking about Johnny thousands of miles away from her. But if she dares to step out with one of her old dates and go to places of amusement, where she is among the gayest of the gay, the gossips get busy and some kind friend writes her husband all about it. And it doesn't make pleasant reading for him.

So don't give up your job to go traipsing around the country after a man whose movements are not under his own control. Work hard and save your money so that when Johnny comes marching home after the war you will have a little nest-egg to begin housekeeping on, and to tide you over the bad days when he is getting settled back into civilian life.

MY DAY

NEW YORK—It is gratifying to know how well the fourth war loan drive went over, showing that the people of this country have complete faith in their government and in themselves. They are sure they will win the war and they are sure that when the war is won, they will be able to find the answers to perplexing economic and political questions. This assurance is deep in the hearts of young and old alike. As an illustration, I was told a charming story about a gentleman who is 101 years old, Alfred Glasstil of New York City, who pledged himself to sell a thousand dollars worth of bonds for every year of his life and succeeded.

Yesterday I went to the meeting and the luncheon given for the United Jewish appeal. A wonderful report was made on the need for the work of these organizations to co-operate with the UNNRA. Mr. Quentin Reynolds made the interesting speech of the meeting. He made a point to emphasize for all of us the importance of co-operating as civilians in the winning of the war, and the fact that the war is not yet won, and that there is no place in this country for complacency.

By making the simple statement that it was not yet decided who would win the war, he shocked us to attention. Of course there is no sure victory until our enemies surrender, but I know Mr. Reynolds is as sure of the eventual outcome of the war as I am, and as is every other citizen of the United States. What he wanted to get across to all of us is something which we are not so ready to accept, namely, that the success and speed of our victory depend on our awareness and our willingness to shoulder responsibility for every move at home, regardless of what it may cost us at the present time in discomfort and deprivation.

In the afternoon Mr. James Blauvelt of Doubleday, Doran and Company, brought me a most interesting new publication which they are getting out on American history. It is in the form of a tabloid newspaper and can be used in schools, but I think it will be extremely valuable in adult education classes. He also showed me the titles of the books which they are publishing in their "New Home Library." These books are sold through the Woolworth stores and certainly should prove an incentive to building a library among those who find the average cost of books prohibitive.

In the evening I went over to a meeting held by the Brooklyn interracial assembly. The report read of their accomplishments is the kind of thing you wish could be ready at every meeting of this type throughout the country. A new health centre will soon be opened in this district, a well-baby clinic will be available and a number of other improvements are actually going to be transferred from paper plans to realities.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Some time ago Jerome Scheuer of Boston was in my office, and we discussed bridge in general and some interesting hands that have come up in the past. Here is one which Scheuer said was play in a rubber game at the Boston Chess Club in 1938.

Scheuer (South) ruffed the opening lead, wihch was the club ace, then ruffed a spade in dummy, ruffed another club, ruffed another spade with the ten of diamonds, and ruffed the third club in his own hand. Now he cashed the ace and king of diamonds, won a heart in dummy with the king and led another club. East ruffed with the queen of diamonds and Scheuer discarded the ten of spades.

East returned a spade. While the finesse would work, Scheuer pointed out that it could not gain. By going up with the ace, the blank king might be picked up. If not, the play of the last diamond would squeeze either East or West. If East refused to trump, he would be squeezed.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Here are two good liver recipes from the February "Health for Victory Guide."

LIVER PATTIES
(Makes 10 Patties)

Two pounds pork liver, ½ cup chili sauce, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 small onion, finely chopped, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Parboil liver 10 minutes. Put through meat grinder, then mix well with all other ingredients. Shape into patties three inches in diameter and about one inch thick. Wrap with a strip of bacon and broil about five minutes on each side. Do not have patties too near broiler unit as liver burns easily.

FRIED LIVER AND ONIONS

One pound liver, bacon drippings, 2 pounds onions, ¼ cup all-purpose enriched flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper.

Liver is a valuable source of iron and vitamins. Pork liver is cheaper and nutritionally superior to beef and calves liver. Although its flavor is a little stronger, onions help to conceal this.

Cover liver with boiling water. Drain immediately. Dredge with mixture of flour and seasonings. Heat 3 tablespoons bacon drippings in skillet, and brown liver on both sides. Place thinly sliced onions over liver, add 1 tablespoon water. Reduce heat to low, cook 25 minutes. If necessary, add more salt to onions.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Sliced oranges, ready-to-eat cereal, scrambled eggs, whole wheat toast, marmalade, coffee, milk for children.

Lunch: Corn chowder, salted whole wheat crackers, toasted bacon rolls, baked apples, tea, milk for children.

Dinner: Fried liver and onions, mashed potatoes, beets, enriched bread, butter, celery, radish and lettuce salad, home canned fruit, peanut cookies, coffee, milk for children.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

There are dozens of reasons for the disturbing and irritating rash which breaks out on a well baby and is known as eczema.

Because this rash is not accompanied by fever or signs of illness and because, despite periods of apparent healing, it becomes a more or less constant thing, it is distinguishable from the rash diseases.

The child with eczema is suffering from a personal sensitivity to some common food, or some commonplace factor in his immediate environment and he cannot be relieved or cured of it until these offending factors are changed or eliminated.

In some few cases eczema might develop because of constant overfeeding which develops food sensitivities and this would seem to be the case with the baby of Mrs. H. D. Y.

"My baby had a beautiful clear skin," she writes, "until she was about four months' old. She was breast-fed and had a supplementary bottle. She gained enormously and at 11 weeks weighed 15 pounds.

"Then I put her on the bottle entirely and began giving her baby cereal, vegetables and orange juice as the clinic ordered. She began to have a very rough skin, first her forehead then down on her cheeks.

"She is being given ascorbic acid tablets instead of the orange juice but so far this hasn't helped. She is just in misery, the rash itches so, and she looks so terrible, covered with this black salve I was told to use. What could you suggest?"

Not much, without knowing the exact contents of her formula and the amounts of ths supplementary foods.

It would seem, from what you have told me, this might be the result of consistent over-feeding. The addition of the new foods plus the large amount of milk, capable of resulting in such an enormous gain, has possibly sensitized the child to milk.

I'd reduce the diet to the formula plus the ascorbic acid tablets and vitamin D in some form and give the baby's digestion a rest. Then if this doesn't work any improvement it would be wise to make changes in the formula. If it is plain milk, try evaporated or dried milk, if this isn't helpful, try goat's milk. Soybean formulas may have to be a last resort if none of these changes result in a clear skin.

Don't be in too great a hurry to increase the baby's diet. His digestion doesn't seem to have been equal to the load put upon it.

Our leaflet, "What Mothers Should Know About Eczema," may be had by mailing your request for it to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, and enclosing a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. W. L. Freeman Hostess at Trousseau Tea Held for Daughter

Dainty spring bouquets were arranged throughout the drawing room at the home of Mrs. W. L. Freeman, 11009 84 avenue, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, when she entertained at a trousseau tea for her daughter, Miss Wilma Jean Freeman. The latter will leave Friday for P.E.I., where her marriage to FO. James Y. Halcrow, R.C.A.F., will take place early in March.

Receiving with Mrs. Freeman and her daughter, was the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Matthews. Mrs. Freeman wore an afternoon dress of a trophy gold shade trimmed with sequins. Talisman roses en corsage were pinned to her shoulder. The bride-to-be was smartly attired in the ensemble which she will wear for her wedding trip, a dress of cinnamon brown crepe with gold plaid trim. Cream roses and lily of the valley comprised her corsage. Mrs. Mathews wore a jet black dress complemented by white trimming and a corsage of red carnations.

The table was set with an oyster colored mosaic tea cloth and in the centre, a crystal bowl of carnations and roses, flanked by pink and white tapers in crystal candelabra, brightened the whole.

THOSE PRESIDING

Presiding at the tea urns in the afternoon were: Mrs. J. S. Dawe, Mrs. Forbes Milne, Mrs. Maurice Brown of Calgary, and Mrs. John Michaels.

Mrs. W. H. Hustler showed the guests to the drawing room. In charge of the dining room was Mrs. William Broadfoot, and assisting her as serviteurs were Mrs. Eric Hawkins, Mrs. Blanche Johnston, Mrs. Mac Johnstone, Mrs. Dan Lovelace, and Mrs. T. F. Cairns.

Mrs. Mary Wells and Miss Ifran Harrison showed the trousseau.

In the evening, Mrs. Ingram Cameron and Mrs. Douglas Dorrell will pour tea, and Miss Margaret Clayton will be in charge of the dining room. Servers are to be Miss Ifran Harrison, Miss Kay White and Miss Gerdine Rowan.

Showing the trousseau gifts will be Miss Laura Ostlander and Miss Ruth Sheppard.

Creche Society Served 2,395 Meals Last Month

The Edmonton Creche Society held its February meeting on Monday at the Macdonald hotel, and it was announced that during the month of January the society served 2,395 meals to children entrusted to its care.

Bottle feedings amounted to 348. The Creche was open 25 days. This report was prepared by the matron of the nursery, and was read on Monday by Mrs. A. J. Huff.

Mrs. Edgerton Pope was appointed convener of the House Committee, and Mrs. L. C. Harris was appointed to convene the sewing committee.

Mrs. J. H. Chown, the new president, was in the chair.

Sergeants Guests Of Their Wives

The sergeants of the 2nd (R) Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers were entertained at a party held recently which was organized by their wives. Mrs. Gordon, wife of the Regimental Sergeant-Major, was in charge of arrangements.

Bingo and military whist was enjoyed during the evening, hearts being used in place of the usual flags.

Refreshments were served at individual tables which were set in white, and centered with red hearts and candles.

Prizes for cards were presented by Lt. Col. H. B. Jamieson, just back from overseas, to Capt. William Hewlitt, Lt. J. Fullerton, Sgt. C. Fuhr, Mrs. G. Ross, Major F. W. Kemp, CSM. Parsons, Sgt. T. Flynn and Mrs. D. Taylor.

Guests were Lt.-Col. and Mrs. A. R. Ladler, Mrs. F. W. Kemp, Mrs. William Hewlitt, Capt. E. L. Moillet, Lt. and Mrs. W. W. Butchart, Mrs. J. Fullerton, RSM. J. H. Clucas, CSM. and Mrs. C. H. Quick.

Others present were RSM. W. M. Gordon, M.M., Miss Edith Roux, CSMI. and Mrs. H. C. Howell, CQMS. J. S. Paton, CSM. and Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. E. Marshall, CQMS. and Mrs. H. Godwin, CSM. and Mrs. A. P. Kiwanis Ladies Hear Speaker

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' club was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. A. Graham with Mrs. F. J. Folinsbee in the chair.

Mrs. W. E. Stewart, representing the Women's Regional Advisory committee was guest speaker, and dealt with the efforts of the committee to help enforce price control. She stated that neither religion nor politics played any part in the organization's fight against inflation, and that as 80 per cent of the buying was done by women, it was not only every woman's privilege, but also her duty, to the dependents of men serving overseas, to check and report to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board any attempt on the part of manufacturers to evade government regulations and price ceiling.

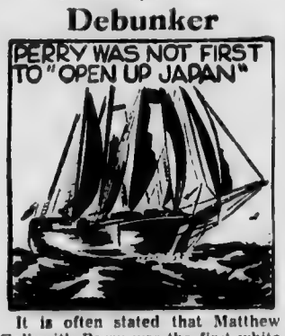

The board particularly desires women buyers to examine the sizes, seams and hems of all clothing purchased so that no unnecessary skimping or misrepresentations may be allowed to continue. She stated that it was still possible to obtain good fast dyes without depending upon the almost forgotten importations from Germany.

Local merchants are willing to co-operate with the board to investigate and adjust every legitimate complaint from fruit to furniture. Larger quantities of goods —towels, sheets and more efficient canning rubbers, etc., are expected to appear on the markets shortly.

Mrs. J. W. Fry presided at the tea table which was centred with a bowl of daffodils. Mrs. Ross Shepherd and Mrs. W. G. Strachan assisted in serving.

Debunker

It is often stated that Matthew Galbraith Perry was the first white man to really open up Japan to the western world, but this is not accurate. It is true that he negotiated the earliest treaty between the United States and Japan, but the real pioneer in opening that country to western trade was an Englishman named William Adams.

Navigator Adams became stranded on the shores of Japan in 1600, was received by the ruling house, presented with an estate near Yokosuka and forbidden to return to England. Because of his knowledge of shipbuilding, he was put to work teaching the Japanese how to build a fleet of ships. He married a Japanese woman, reared a family and left behind a memory that is honored in an annual celebration on June 15 in Japan. Thus an Englishman started the Japanese toward naval power.

Countess Tells of Gestapo Horrors, Courage of French

By MARGARET ECKER

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—The best stories of this war are the ones you can't write—or the ones you have to disguise heavily at the sacrifice of journalistic accuracy.

Take the story of the countess, for instance. She probably wouldn't have talked to me at all if she'd known I was a reporter. But she met me at lunch at the home of a friend, so, on the friend's urging, she talked of her adventures.

It was a tale that made Etta Shiver's "Paris Underground," pale by comparison. Her son was wounded and she got away to England. But the Gestapo's ring was closing around her and finally she herself was forced to travel the underground road. Her story, of course, is of the bloody trail she followed across France.

She told one story of how she had smuggled a French officer out of home in the French equivalent of a garbage can. The Gestapo became suspicious of the garbage collector and gave chase. The man, who was wounded, leaped over a wall as the truck sped past. His wound opened but he managed to elude the searchers in spite of a trail of blood behind him.

Finally he became exhausted from the race that led him over walls, down alleys and even over rooftops. The door of a large apartment block had been propped open and half fainting, he slipped behind it.

But his wound was bleeding profusely and when the concierge came out a few minutes later, she saw the trickle of blood from behind the door. Fortunately she was a loyal Frenchwoman and she took the officer to her own apartment where she hid him until he was strong enough to make another dash for the border.

ARMY NOT DEAD

The countess had more stories—more exciting than this but they can't be written up—yet.

But she had words of optimism. "A man came to me the other day," she said. "He told me that France today is more united than ever before, all classes, all religions, they are united for France and for freedom.

"The French army is not dead. It exists stronger than ever today. In central France, in the whidlands, there are thousands of soldiers, ragged, yes, but well trained, well-disciplined. As soon as the Allies step on European soil they will make themselves felt. They have planned exactly what they will do, every detail is taken care of.

"I even know the name of the brave girl who will command an ambulance corps in France. These people are trained. In small groups men attend hidden training camps."

The countess and her friends are optimistic about the second front.

"It should not be a difficult campaign," she said. "From information I have received I know the fortress of Europe is manned by old men and boys. They are poorly equipped. The Nazis in France are terrified. They are ready to pack up and run for Germany on the first hint of invasion.

"But that invasion must come soon. The German propaganda machine is extremely dangerous. They are cleverly stirring up distrust of the British. They may succeed if the blow doesn't come soon."

St. John Ambulance Brigade Members Arrive Overseas

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—A cable has been received from London notifying St. John House here of the safe arrival of ten Canadian members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. The Canadian women, all officers or members of various brigade centres across the Dominion, made the trip at their own expense to study the wartime Red Cross-St. John joint program in Britain and to work with the parent St. John organization.

Mrs. Kathleen Gilmour, Toronto, Lady Superintendent-in-Chief of the St. John Ambulance Brigade in Canada, arrived in London some weeks ago and made all arrangements for the arrival of the other nine members of the party: Mrs. Elsie B. Little, Halifax, N.S.; Mrs. Edith R. Hay, Sarnia, Ont.; Miss Madeleine Joan Cantelon, Mrs. Beatrice Martin, Miss Trudean Lorraine Spencer, all of Vancouver, B.C.; Miss Margaret J. L. Maclaren, Saint John, N.B.; Mrs. Myra Gold, Windsor, Ont.; Miss Ruth K. Mackenzie, Sarnia, Ont.; Miss Amelia K. Prentice, Toronto, Ont.

The party will remain in Britain for several weeks. Owing to the vast experience gained during the blitz by the St. John organization in Britain and the extensive plans made there for further teaching of First Aid and Home Nursing, the party will gain much useful information and experience which will be of valuable assistance in furthering the work of St. John in Canada.

Ball Players Hold Luncheon

Members of the Eskimo Girls' Ball club, with friends and coaches of the playing days, gathered on Monday evening at Bissell Memorial Institute for a luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Runnalls who have returned to Edmonton after residing in Halifax, and Miss Mary Melnyk, who is reporting this week to Military Headquarters in Calgary for Army Nursing duties.

The Eskimo Girls' Ball club was privately formed in 1926 as a baseball team. It is now organized in the form of a club which holds meetings and social events, and sponsors a ball game only rarely. A. R. Lawrence is the manager.

Miss Melnyk, who was formerly on the staff of the University hospital here, was presented with a variety of parting gifts at the luncheon.

Adding a bit of humor to the evening, several of the men present told of incidents which occurred in the "olden days" when the ball players took trips to out-of-town places. Without serious accident, it was related, the club travelled in standard sleepers, railroad cabooses, buses and rented cars.

HISTORY OF CLUB

Mr. Lawrence gave a history of the club since the time of its inauguration up to the present time. He also related incidents which happened to make games of lasting interest.

Letters and telegrams were read from a number of former players who are still members of the club, but who reside in far-off places. Among those sending such messages were: Mrs. Amy Cogswell Abell, of Ottawa; Mrs. Olga Fuyarchuk Anderson, of Winnipeg; Mrs. Bonnie Phillips Logan, of Toronto; Mrs. Helen Frederick White of Macleod, Alta.; Mrs. Bea Dame McLeod, of Coal Valley, Alta.; and Mrs. Kay Metz Grant, of Dawson Creek, B.C.

All these played baseball or basketball in earlier days here.

Among the guests were Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., M.L.A.; Frank Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haliburton, Mr. and Mrs. William Pullishy, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Allen, Art Skitch and Mr. and Mrs. James Shropshire.

50-Year-Old Woman North Sea Skipper

WHITBY, Eng.—A middle-aged Englishwoman, Dora Walker, whose doctor told her she needed some salt air, went down to the sea in a fishing ship to become Britain's first woman skipper.

Skipper Walker, now 50, has for four years been defying German planes, submarines and mines in the North Sea. Ordered ashore recently by her doctor, she is confident the day isn't far away when England will need her again.

"They will need small craft soon —and people who can handle them," she said at her Yorkshire cottage within sound of the North Sea breakers. "That will be my day—you wait and see."

She learned her seamanship by bitter experience, her navigation from a correspondence course. When the war came she was—and still is—the only woman allowed to go to sea in command of a ship. She has been bombed by enemy planes when her fishing ship was sailing through the lines of a British convoy.

For a while, during the blitz of London, she served as a nurse in air raid shelters, and when her father died and left her more than $600,000 she gave most of her money to the victims of the bombings.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Splendid

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Real Results.

To get really surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—anyone can do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat, for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—about 4 times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it is actually splendid. It works in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritation. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

THE NEED GROWS AS VICTORY NEARS

$10,000,000 needed NOW!

This is the year of supreme effort, the year Red Cross will be needed as never before. And as our all-out victory drive gains momentum, as casualty lists mount, as the horrors of war spread wider and sink deeper, this need will grow.

We must see them through: the fighting men on every front, the gallant Merchant Navy, the wounded and maimed in British and Canadian hospitals, the Prisoners of War, the homeless war orphans of Britain and the suffering millions of Europe.

Only the Red Cross meets this call for vital life saving food, Prisoners of War parcels, medicines, comforts, blood serum and nursing that spell survival for so many. There is no one else to do the job.

That is why we cannot fail: why we ask you to open your hearts and purses, giving to the limit of your ability.

Remember, Victory will not be cheap: the real need lies ahead.

Judicial Sale of Farm Property by Tender

Pursuant to an order of Honourable Mr. Justice Tweedie of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and of certain directions for sale, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the following parcel of farm property, situate 5 miles from Redwater, Alberta, to be sold in one parcel:

The South West Quarter of Section Two (2), Township Fifty-eight (58), Range Twenty-one (21), West of the Fourth Meridian, in the Province of Alberta, containing One Hundred and Sixty (160) acres, more or less. Excepting thereout all mines and minerals; subject to the conditions and reservations contained in the original grant from the Crown or in the existing Certificate of Title thereto, and subject to all taxes, rates and assessments imposed thereon, subsequent to the 31st day of December, 1943.

The land is situate 5 miles from Redwater, Alberta, and consists of approximately 160 acres, 100 of which is under cultivation, 40 acres brush, 15 acres hay land, and 5 acres pasture.

The top soil consists of black sandy loam with clay subsoil. The nearest school is 2 miles away. The buildings consist of log house 20'x24' and addition 15'x15'; log store house 12'x18'; log chicken house 12'x15'; log barn 24'x24'. The buildings are in a poor state of repair. There is one well and the land is all fenced with two strand wire.

The sale will be subject to an upset price of $2,870.00.

Tenders must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked, "Tender re North American Life Assce. Co. vs. Emile Royer et al, No. 33081," and addressed to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, and must be in the hands of the said Clerk not later than 12:00 o'clock noon on the 29th day of February, 1944.

TERMS OF SALE: Each tender must be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender, and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid into Court within forty days after the acceptance of the tender, without interest, the Purchaser to make his own arrangements for the money by way of mortgage or otherwise.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after the acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof; the highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. In all other respects the terms and conditions of the sale will be standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta as far as the same are applicable hereto.

For further particulars apply to Messrs. Newell, Lindsay, Emery & Ford, Barristers, Canada Permanent Building, 100th Street, Edmonton, Alberta.

DATED at the City of Edmonton, in the Province of Alberta, this 11th day of February, A.D. 1944.

Hon. A. J. Hooke Reviews Costs Of Insurance

freedom to choose whatever insurance company they wished, and protection was given to them at a minimum cost.

With reference to the Teachers' Retirement Fund Board, on which he is the government representative, Mr. Hooke said pensions paid under the board have been increased to $30 a month maximum, from $25 set when the fund was established about four years ago.

He stated the fund is growing nicely, and there seems to be every hope that the time is not too far distant when a proper superannuation fund can be set up for Alberta teachers.

REFERS TO REMARKS

The minister made reference to remarks made earlier in the debate, when J. J. Bowlen, Liberal M.L.A. for Calgary, had suggested the people of Alberta had been "Sold down the river" when the government defaulted on its bond issues.

He said that the government of Alberta between the years 1905-1921 had built up a $60,000,000 debt, and the next government had built $100,000,000 more debt. "That is when we were sold down the river," said Mr. Hooke. He said the province had been sold down the river by international finance, and that the crash of 1929 had put the people in a position where they actually could not pay their debts.

The minister then read quotations from "Social Planning for Canada," one of which was as follows: "Every time we set up a new permanent independent commission to carry on some function of government, we deny in practice the naive theory of democracy in which we still profess to believe—that all the power lies with the 'peepul' to be exercised by their elected representatives."

WHY FIGHT SOCIALISM?

"Is this what our boys are fighting for?" Mr. Hooke asked. "They are being told today by many spokesmen in Canada that socialism is the answer to their problem. Why, then, send them to Europe to fight against it?"

"Why don't we tell them that international finance, their worst enemy, is backing the philosophy of national socialism?

"What is Nazism but a type of socialism?" the minister asked later.

"It is not!" Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F. M.L.A. for Edmonton, interjected.

There are but two philosophies of life, individualism and collectivism, Mr. Hooke said. The philosophy of individualism embraces democracy, Christianity, and the doctrine of the individual supreme, while the philosophy of collectivism embraces socialism, paganism, and the doctrine of the state supreme.

"All political parties will soon have to tell the people which philosophy they stand for," the minister declared.

He said, "Our socialist friends are telling the people so many contradictory stories that one doesn't know what to believe."

DIVIDE ON PHILOSOPHY

The house was warned that the line of demarcation between philosophies will be drawn soon, and before long the people will forget party and divide on philosophy, and would insist upon economic freedom with a maximum of freedom, a system in which work is only a means to an end, and not an end in itself.

MARKET MOVEMENTS

FEBRUARY 23, 1944.

Stocks—
At New York: Rails advance.
At Montreal: Spotty trade.
At Toronto: Minor losses.

Wheat—
At Winnipeg: Trading suspended; last close 1.20.
At Chicago: Unchanged to ⅞ lower, closing at 1.69⅜-½ (May).

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Rails and aircrafts advanced broadly today but their leadership stirred only a moderate following in other key departments of the stock market. Santa Fe, most buoyant carrier, pushed up about 3 points and Consolidated Vultee and Douglas headed the aircrafts, with a rise of better than a point.

Liquidation in Rye Chicago Feature

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—(AP)—Liquidation in rye sent that grain down for losses of more than a cent in a generally weak grain market today. Selling was inspired by reports that the prospect of using rye in industrial alcohol production was remote because its use would decrease the output of that important war commodity.

Improvement of the winter wheat outlook in the Ohio Valley, reported by the weather bureau, and a weak cash wheat market at Minneapolis acted to ease bread cereal futures. Oats were lower with other grains. Bookings on corn were heavy at close to 200,000 bushels, a fact which tended to discourage traders in other feed grain futures.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ lower, May $1.69⅜-½, oats were off ¾-1 cent, May 78⅞, rye was down 1⅜-2 cents, May $1.25¼-⅜ and barley was 1¼-1½ lower, May $1.21⅛.

Wheat: May $1.69⅜-½, July 1.65⅞, Sept. 1.64¼, Dec. 1.64⅝-½.

Rye: May 1.25¼-⅜, July 1.24¼-⅜, Sept. 1.23-1.23⅛, Dec. 1.23⅛.

Barley: May 1.21⅛, July 1.18½.
